Spiritual Joy To Be Theme At Joseph P. Kennedy Mass

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — A funeral Mass with a theme of spiritual joy will be offered Thursday for Joseph P. Kennedy in the small claspboard church where the Kennedys have worshiped for years. The 81-year-old former ambassador, father of President

John F. Kennedy and patriarch of one of the nation's most famous political families, died Tuesday at his Cape Cod home. Family Attends Mass He had been in poor health since suffering a stroke eight years ago. Last Saturday he had another stroke. He grew progressively weaker, slipping into a coma Monday.

Members of the family attended a special Mass offered Tuesday night by the Rev. John J. Cavanaugh at St. Francis Xavier church in Hyannis. Father Cavanaugh is a long-time friend of the Kennedys. A former president of Notre Dame University, he is now chaplain at St. Mary's College in Indiana.

Thursday's 9 a.m. funeral Mass will be offered in the same church. Kennedy's close friend, Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, will be the celebrant. He will be assisted by the Rev. Joseph Maguire, a member of the cardinal's staff, and the Rev. Joseph Fitzgerald, a nephew of Mrs. Kennedy.

Only the family and close friends will attend. There will be no wake.

White Funeral Set The white funeral Mass will be a departure from Roman Catholic tradition. The Mass is called white because the clergy will wear white vestments instead of purple or black. In accordance with precepts that have been emphasized since the Second Vatican Council, the accent will be on the message of resurrection and joy after death rather than mourning.

Following the Mass, a hearse will carry the body to the family plot at Holyhood Cemetery in Brookline, a town bordering Boston where the Kennedys lived for years.

Kennedy's six oldest grandchildren will be honorary pallbearers.

Haynsworth To Know Fate Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., dealt a blow today to administration hopes for confirmation of the Supreme Court nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., by lining up with the opposition.

With a Senate vote due Friday, Haynsworth supporters had been buoyed by earlier developments.

Williams told the Senate that "one can discern a pattern which indicates that Judge Haynsworth is insensitive to the expected requirements of judicial ethics, especially the rule that requires judges to separate from active business connections and to avoid even the appearance of impropriety."

Supporters of Haynsworth's nomination had been hoping that Williams would vote for confirmation, and some had said privately that if he decided against them, it would be a severe—and possibly fatal—blow.

Cavanaugh Plans To Practice Law

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Retiring Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanaugh says he is looking forward to practicing law and teaching college students but wants to keep "the options open" about his political future.

Cavanaugh made the comments Tuesday night while addressing the North Kent Democratic club in Grand Rapids.

Conrad, Bean On Moon; Exploration Under Way

Second Stroll Scheduled For Early Thursday

SPACE CENTER, Houston — (AP) — Like explorers on earth, Apollo 12 astronauts Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean plan to tote a knapsack early Thursday when they hike to the Surveyor 3 spacecraft during their second stroll on the moon. Scheduled to begin at 12:37 a.m. EST with Conrad exiting the Intrepid landing craft, the trek to Surveyor's location 150 feet down the slope of a lunar crater is to be a slow one—carefully collecting rocks en route and taking care not to slip when standing on the 15-degree crater slope.

Long Walks Set Altogether, Conrad planned to be outside 3 hours, 20 minutes during Apollo 12's second excursion, with Bean walking around 3 hours, 2 minutes.

After Conrad backs out the hatch on his hands and knees and descends to the lunar surface, Bean is to use a clothes-line-like conveyor belt to transfer two 70 millimeter cameras and film to him.

Bean then is to climb down the ladder as Conrad takes from a storage bin tools, two rock storage bags and a knapsack to hold the tools. He is to attach one rock bag to Bean's side, then Bean attaches a similar bag to Conrad.

Surveyor Parts Eyed The knapsack, containing long-handled bolt cutters to snip off pieces of Surveyor, is to be attached to Conrad's backpack.

The astronauts will gather interesting rocks, first documenting with photographs each stone's position before picking it up.

The astronauts will pick up the samples with long-handled tongs, place them in small numbered plastic bags, then put them in the bags attached to their sides.

Will Dig Trench At one point, the astronauts will dig a shallow trench in the soil and collect dirt from the bottom of the trench.

After reaching the edge of Surveyor 3's crater, Conrad and Bean will attach a 30-foot safety line to one another, then Bean will carefully descend the slope.

If keeping his footing is not a problem, the safety line will be discarded and both spacemen will ease down the slope to Surveyor.

To Photograph Area First they will take photographs of the area, so scientists can compare them with pictures televised by the robot after it landed 32 months ago to see if erosion occurs on the moon.

Using the bolt cutter, Conrad then plans to snip off a piece of cable attached to Surveyor's TV camera, the camera itself, a piece of aluminum tubing, and a section of glass. After each piece is severed, he will hand it to Bean who will stow it in Conrad's knapsack. The parts will tell engineers how well man-made materials wear on the moon.

They will then head back to the Intrepid lander craft, stopping for rocks en route.

Okinawa Talks Could Broaden U. S.-Japan Ties

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and Prime Minister Eisaku Sato, opening three days of talks today on the return of Okinawa to Japan, are expected to map an important security relationship between their two nations for the coming decade.

Military honors including a 19-gun salute were on the program for the arrival of the Japanese leader and his wife at the White House for the most carefully prepared historical drama in U.S.-Japan relations since the 1951 peace treaty.

The negotiations involve the return of Okinawa to Japanese jurisdiction in 1972, the possibility of future use of the U.S. base on the island for nuclear weapons, the American and Japanese roles in Asia and trade problems.

Sato has staked his government's future on the outcome of the talks. At the outset of his five-year rule, the 68-year-old Japanese conservative leader set the recovery of Okinawa as his highest goal. The United States has occupied Okinawa since near the end of World War II.

Japan wants the Ryukyu Island chain and its one million inhabitants returned without U.S. nuclear weapons stored on the island.

Arrangements have been worked out in principle on the nuclear issue, according to informed sources, but the two leaders are meeting privately to decide how the recommendations will be carried out before making an announcement Friday.

GE Strike Fund Campaign Begins

DETROIT (AP) — A campaign to raise funds for striking employees of General Electric Co. will be kicked off in Detroit tonight with a rally sponsored by the Metropolitan Detroit AFL-CIO Council.

The rally is one of 23 being staged across the country by the AFL-CIO, which is trying to raise $1 from each member as an initial fund to aid the 147,000 GE strikers.

Jerry Wurf, president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, will be principal speaker in Detroit.

Gordon Claims Space Plentiful, Inside, Outside

SPACE CENTER, Houston — (AP) — "I can really move in here pretty good when I've got all this room," said Richard F. Gordon Jr., consoling himself as his Apollo 12 crewmates made history on the moon.

It was about his only consolation aboard the Yankee Clipper, sailing through a sea of space, waiting for Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean to return to him from the moon.

"Quite a sight, isn't it," he had said as he watched Intrepid slip away, drifting further and further back like a leaf in a stream.

Education Bill Discussion Set For Thursday

LANSING (AP) — House and Senate leaders plan to open bipartisan discussions Thursday in an effort to move at least part of Gov. William Milliken's education reform package through the Legislature before Christmas.

Milliken worked on details of the sessions Tuesday with Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis; Senate Minority Leader Sander Levin, D-Berkley; House Speaker William Ryan, D-Detroit; and House Minority Leader Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe.

A second meeting was set for today, after leaders had a chance to "touch base" with colleagues and get a go-ahead on the bargaining plans.

Talk of negotiations—called for by some lawmakers since the current education-oriented legislative session convened Oct. 6—began in earnest last week after the Senate approved two bills from Milliken's requests.

One allocates more than $1 billion in state school aid for 1970-71, including $25 million for private and parochial schools. A second repeals the current property tax credit against the state income tax and could bring in an estimated $116 million.

Before the Legislature adjourned for a two-week deer-hunting break last week, the Senate also passed three bills removing various items from the state sales and use tax exemption rolls.

"I personally do not feel the session would be a complete failure if the only things we passed were school aid and taxation," Lockwood said Tuesday.

Bank Haul Loot Set At $40,000

BLANCHARD (AP) — Burglars who broke into the vault of the Blanchard State Bank in this Isabella County town during the weekend escaped with more than $40,000, bank officials reported today.

The bank reopened for business Tuesday after an assessment of the burglary loss and a meeting of its board of directors.

State police and the FBI said they have made no arrests in the case and no new clues have been uncovered.

Brush Off Powder Before returning to the cabin they brushed off layers of the dark powder that clung to them.

The moonwalkers originally were to have stayed outside about 3½ hours. With their oxygen supply holding well, Mission Control told them to remain on an extra half an hour and instructed them to collect samples from the rim of a nearby crater.

Conrad and Bean reported the dust in the Ocean of Storms was thicker and blacker than that in the Sea of Tranquility where the first moon explorers landed in July.

"Your boots dig into the soil quite a bit," Bean said. "If you don't pick up your feet you really kick a load of dirt in front of you."

Set Up Instruments They roamed several hundred feet from Intrepid to explore and to set up a set of five sophisticated scientific instruments to measure such things as the solar wind, moonquakes and the moon's atmosphere and ionosphere.

To power the instruments they implanted the first nuclear generator on the surface, a unit which required delicate handling because of its hot radioactive element.

First Steps Recorded The camera did record the first steps of both on the powdery surface. Commander Conrad's first words as he placed his 13-inch boot in the soil were: "That may have been a small one for Neil, but that's a long one for me."

He referred jokingly to Neil Armstrong's first words last July when he became the first man to step on the moon: "That's one small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind."

Camera Abandoned While ground experts studied the problem, the astronauts abandoned the camera to continue their exploration.

Get-Together Slated For Arms Talk Units

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — The U.S. and the Soviet ambassadors are giving a precedent-shattering joint party today during the one-day recess in the strategic arms limitation talks.

First Joint Reception The reception being given by Ambassadors Val Peterson and A. E. Kovalev is the first in Helsinki—and diplomats believe the first anywhere—to be given jointly by Soviet and American ambassadors.

The idea—understood to have been proposed by Peterson and willingly seconded by his Soviet counterpart—was to stage a get-acquainted social for the disarmament delegations, their staffs and leaders of the Finnish government hosting the conference.

200 Guests Invited About 200 guests were invited to the reception at a restaurant-club neutrally located between the U.S. and Soviet embassies.

The two ambassadors drew up the invitation list—and agreed to split the cost 50-50.

The joint reception underscored the air of cordiality which has surrounded the negotiators since they first met Monday.

Conference sources said there have been no procedural disputes so far like the long argument in Paris last year over the shape of the table for the Vietnam peace talks.

Russians First A toss of the coin, for example, gave Soviet negotiator Vladimir S. Semenov first place in the speaking lineup at the ceremonial opening. The Russians readily agreed in turn to hold the first business session Tuesday at the U.S. Embassy, and the Americans agreed to hold the next session Thursday at the Soviet Embassy.

Whether this show of cooperation means the two superpowers will make any progress in the main aim of the talks—to slow down the nuclear arms race—remains to be seen.

The shortness of the first negotiating session—only 45 minutes of business time since half the 90-minute meeting was spent in translations—indicated neither side presented its position in detail.

Judge Approves Death Certificate As Trial Evidence

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge Noel P. Fox ruled today that the death certificate of a Kent County man who died of lung cancer may be admitted as evidence in his widow's $750,000 damage suit against Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

The judge said the fact that the certificate was signed two days after Leslie Thayer died in March, 1964, does not lessen its authenticity. The tobacco company contended the law requires such certificates be signed by the attending physician within 24 hours after death.

Church said he sees "some encouragement from the fact that the general direction of our policy is now out of Vietnam," but added he fears the administration plans to keep up to 250,000 men in Vietnam "for an indefinite number of years."

GI Withdrawal Speedup Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several war critics on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee say the Nixon administration is on a withdrawal course from Vietnam, but the rate is too slow.

The senators, who gave their views after a closed meeting Tuesday with Secretary of State William P. Rogers, had a similar session scheduled today with Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird.

Sens. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark.; Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Albert Gore, D-Tenn., agreed after talking with Rogers that the withdrawal course is irreversible. They complained, however, the policy may involve leaving up to 250,000 U.S. troops in Vietnam for an indefinite period.

Committee Chairman Fulbright said Rogers rejected repeated demands by members for further details on President Nixon's withdrawal plans and the secret timetable for turning the war over to the South Vietnamese.

Fulbright said the committee would decide after today's meeting with Laird whether to push ahead with public hearings on Vietnam.

Rogers told the committee the United States has had "numerous diplomatic contacts" with North Vietnam, some since the September death of Ho Chi Minh, but that "it would be wrong to suggest that they have indicated any progress."

While he hopes for a positive response to Nixon's speech, the secretary added, "we see no immediate prospect for success in the negotiations."

Gore, expressing encouragement about the secret contacts, said the division between the committee and the administration is "on how to end the war. We have at least come that far."

Church said he sees "some encouragement from the fact that the general direction of our policy is now out of Vietnam," but added he fears the administration plans to keep up to 250,000 men in Vietnam "for an indefinite number of years."

Proposed Ordinance Is Aired Publicly

By BOB GREGG

Almost everyone at Tuesday night's meeting of the Delta County Board of Supervisors favored some type of air pollution ordinance for Delta County.

What they could not agree on, however, was exactly what the ordinance should say.

The meeting was a public hearing, scheduled by the board following submission of a proposed air pollution control ordinance by the Delta County Citizens Committee to Save Our Air to the Board.

About 160 persons attended the hearing at the Delta County Building.

Before public feelings on the proposed ordinance were aired, Frank Stupak, board chairman, informed the audience that the public hearing was just one of several meetings the Board has held in consideration of the ordinance. After telling the crowd what the Board has done so far, Stupak opened the hearing to the public.

Ordinance Read

John Walbridge, spokesman for the Save Our Air Committee (SOA), started the hearing by reading the proposed ordinance.

First to speak was Mrs. William Taylor of the League of Women Voters. She told the Board that the League supported the proposed ordinance. "More and more people everywhere recognize that air pollution is a growing problem. Therefore, gentlemen, we (the League of Women Voters) urge you to adopt this ordinance," she added.

Nino Green, a Gladstone attorney, told the Board that he feels there could be no question that a vast majority of the people in Delta County support the ordinance.

"I realize the consideration of the ordinance is a difficult task . . . but its adoption is a must," Green said. He added that he favored leaving the word "odor" in the ordinance section dealing with air contaminants. "Air pollution is a local problem and should be dealt with on the local level," he finalized.

Urges Adoption

Carl Anderson, UAW Council spokesman, also urged the Board to adopt the proposed ordinance. Dr. Leonard Veder agreed with Anderson and told the Board he believes adoption of the presented ordinance is a "must."

Ed Cox, Escanaba councilman, opposed the proposed ordinance. He said the proposed local commission included in the ordinance should not have the right to decide whether any new industrial facilities could be built or not. "They would not be qualified to make that opinion properly," Cox said.

Joseph Heirman, Delta County extension agent, agreed with Cox saying: "Who on this proposed board, in Delta County, would have the ability to know what had to be done." Heirman also said that he opposed the ordinance because it would stymie industry.

Duane Livermore, a Mead worker and president of the local papermakers union, told the Board about the financial gains made by Mead workers during the past year.

"The new facilities at Mead have also added about 100 new members to our ranks," Livermore said. "I believe the Board should adopt an ordinance, but it should be one everyone can live with."

Trusts Mead

Robert Cavill, also a Mead worker and president of Local 110 Pulp and Sulfite Workers, said he was for clean air and said that the citizens of Delta County could trust Mead. "Mead will live up to its promise of a clean kraft mill," he said.

O. C. Christiansen, plant manager for the Escanaba Paper Company (Mead), told the audience that Mead's proposed new kraft mill would not create an odor or pollution problem. He added also that he was not opposed to a clean air ordinance.

"We at Mead support a sound clean air ordinance. We are also concerned with clean air," he said.

Neil Bartley, a northside Escanaba resident, complained about the already mounting air pollution problem at the Chicago & Northwestern ore terminal.

"We moved here recently from Tucson, Ariz.," he said. "Since then I've been shoveling dust out of my house almost daily. Years ago, I lived in Escanaba. The air was clean. The air in Escanaba is no longer nice. I hope the Board will do everything in its power to eliminate air pollution in our community," Bartley said.

Dick Perlick, a Wells resident, stated that local politicians, until now, have failed area citizens who have, in recent years, been bothered with air pollution problems.

Bill Taylor of Ford River, a member of the SOA Committee, expressed the opinion that local control is needed in order to get anything done about air pollution. "We have seen examples of what happens when we rely on Lansing to solve our problems," he said.

Walbridge again took the floor and explained to the Board that federal funds could be obtained to finance such a commission as has been proposed in the ordinance.

Brilliant Speech

In a brilliant "off the wall" speech, Frank Kobasic, a northside Escanaba resident, fired once again at the problem at the ore docks.

"I live by the ore piles," he said. "When I come home my house is red. The kids are red. I even have to take a bath somewhere else. I can't do it at home. The C&NW told us there would be no dust. Now the ore docks are there. What can do? The proposed new kraft mill will be the same way," Kobasic said.

The County Board has already acted against the C&NW facility during its last meeting. "If this problem isn't abated the facility will be closed down," Stupak told the crowd.

The hearing closed with a short question and answer period.

One woman in the audience expressed the opinion "that the people of Delta County need the proposed ordinance as an insurance policy that the air be kept clean."

Demo Suggests President Fire Two Top Aides

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman has called for dismissal of two administration officials, contending they want the nation's press to give President Nixon "the objective coverage that Kossygin can expect from Pravda."

Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., said Tuesday he asked Nixon to fire Herbert G. Klein, director of communications, and newly appointed Chairman Dean Burch of the Federal Communications Commission.

His charge the pair had made "direct assaults on the constitutional guarantees of a free press" came after Burch was questioned by a House subcommittee about calls he made to national television networks requesting transcripts of commentators' reaction to Nixon's Nov. 3 Vietnam policy speech.

Burch said his requests were not an attempt "to intimidate anybody."

O'Hara said Klein's weekend comment the networks and all news media invited government examination if they do not examine themselves was an "explicit threat." Klein said at the time, however, he opposed government intervention.

Millage Okayed

HIGHLAND PARK (AP) — Voters of this Detroit suburb approved Tuesday continuation of a 4-mill school levy and an added 2.9 mills. This translates into $6.90 in taxes on each $1,000 of assessed valuation of property.

The 2.9-mill addition passed 1,933 to 1,375; the renewal, 2,022 to 1,375.

Landing Near Perfect: Video Trouble Noted

orbited some 65 miles overhead, awaiting the return of his companions on Thursday after they complete 31½ hours on the surface.

They were overjoyed at the landing spot, as they wondered at a variety of geological formations surrounding them.

"We couldn't have picked a better spot," Conrad reported. "We could play geologists all day and we would get no farther than we are now."

Strange Looking Mound

The commander noted a strange-looking mound, and commented excitedly: "I've got to photograph this thing. I can't imagine what it is. There's this big mound sticking up about 300 feet at the foot of a shallow crater on the right-hand edge of the head crater. This is fantastic."

He later reported it looked like a small volcanic formation.

Twice they used a hammer to solve minor problems.

When Bean had trouble driving a tube into the ground to collect a soil sample from beneath the surface, he pounded it with a hammer.

"That's skilled craftsmanship," he quipped.

Later, he had difficulty removing a canister containing the radioactive element, Plutonium-238, from a protective canister swollen.

"It seems swollen in there and friction is holding it in," Bean reported. "I don't want to pull too hard because it's a very delicate mechanism. Come out of there you rascal."

"I've got a better idea," Conrad said. "I'll get the hammer."

That did the trick.

"We got it babe," Conrad told the ground.

If the canister had not come free, one of the major goals of the flight would have failed. Without the nuclear generator, the five scientific instruments would not work.

The astronauts reported initial trouble walking on the moon, but they soon became accustomed to their strange environment on which the gravity pull is one-sixth that on earth.

Temperatures Vary

In a world where temperatures vary some 500 degrees, from 243 degrees above zero in sunlight to 279 below in shadow, the spacemen were comfortable in their thick water-cooled suits.

Conrad was first on the surface at 6:44 a.m., nearly five hours after the pinpoint landing, which NASA officials hailed, saying it opened the way for future Apollo crews to attempt risky descents into difficult areas like mountains and the inside of craters.

Township Slates Recall Election

HOLLAND (AP) — A special election to determine whether five Park Township officials should be recalled is been scheduled for Jan. 12.

Petitions seeking recall of the five were filed Sept. 22 by the township Nonpartisan Committee for Better Government. The recall group contended the board of supervisors used poor judgment in a dispute with firemen and in locating a county dump in the Ottawa County township.

Those named in the petitions are: Herman Windemuller, a supervisor and former chairman of the county board of supervisors; clerk Drew Miles; treasurer Harvey Tinnholt; and Warner De Leeuw and Robert Hall, both trustees.

Detroit Held On Aircraft Gun Charge

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Detroit man was released Tuesday on $1,000 bond and bound over for a hearing on a federal charge of carrying a concealed deadly weapon on an aircraft.

John Garrett, 46, was seized by city police and FBI agents as he stepped from a United Airlines flight at Philadelphia International Airport Tuesday. The airline's pilot had radioed the control tower here that a stewardess spotted a revolver protruding from a passenger's belt, the FBI said.

The FBI reported that Garrett carried $1,200 in cash and that he said the money was to buy clothes at wholesale here. Garrett said he owns a clothing store in Detroit, officials said.

According to authorities, Garrett showed them a Detroit permit to carry the pistol. The FBI noted, however, a federal law prohibits carrying a concealed deadly weapon aboard an airplane, and that a special U.S. permit is needed.

Detroit authorities said Garrett applied for a gun permit and was originally turned down. He reapplied and received a permit by the Wayne County Gun Control Board Sept. 9, to carry the weapon to and from his home, bank and business. They said he told them he needed a gun because he carried large sums of money to make clothing purchases for his firm, Garrett and Hoseay. Authorities there said they found no record of such a firm.

Garrett was given a preliminary hearing on the charge of "crime aboard an aircraft, carrying a concealed deadly weapon" later in the day before U.S. Commissioner Tullio Gene Lemport, who scheduled a hearing on Nov. 20.

If convicted, the FBI said, Garrett could receive a maximum fine of $1,000 and one year in prison.

No Recession Evidence Noted

PARIS (AP) — Paul W. McCracken, chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, said Tuesday there was no evidence of a recession shaping up in the United States.

There is a relaxation of pressure on the economy, as witnessed by the decline in growth of industrial production since July, and sluggish demand for retail sales running at the late-spring level, and a tendency to accumulate inventories, he said.

McCracken spoke at the opening of a two-day meeting of the Economic Policy Committee of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development.

In answer to questions McCracken said that an unemployment rate of 7 per cent was "unacceptable" but declined to give an "acceptable" figure.

We are out to "cool off the economy," he said. "We aren't unmindful that there is a risk of some adverse effect on unemployment."

McCracken said he expected a further improvement in the U.S. current account balance surplus next year.

A cooling-off of the U.S. economy should not hurt other nations because they are all fighting inflation and pursuing the same policy, he said.

Delta, Schoolcraft Search Parties Hunt Hunters

Search parties in Delta and Schoolcraft counties this morning were seeking deer hunters who became lost Tuesday.

Still missing shortly before noon today were Albert Cruthers, 47, of Marquette, lost in Delta County, and Henry Archey, 67, of 412 Delta Ave., Manistique, lost in Schoolcraft County.

State Police of the Gladstone Post said Cruthers was last seen Tuesday afternoon east of Lathrop and north of Rock in Section 4 of Maple Ridge Township. Officers said he was last seen about 1 p. m. Tuesday. He was hunting with his five sons.

State Police, conservation and Sheriff's Dept. officers were involved in the search.

Archey also was reported missing Tuesday afternoon. State Police of the Manistique Post who were involved in the search said he was last seen by his brother, Charles, about 2 p. m. in Section 20, Hiawatha Township, in the Stutz Creek area.

Youth Wounded

Another hunter who was lost overnight walked out of the woods at 8:30 a. m. today. He is Lindell Palen, 26, of Whiteford, who became lost in the Ralph area of Dickinson County late Tuesday afternoon.

At least 17 hunters have been reported lost in the Upper Peninsula since the deer season opened Saturday. All but Cruthers and Archey have been accounted for.

Two hunters have been killed by gunfire and eight others have suffered non-fatal wounds. Three have died of heart attacks.

Latest gunfire victim was a 15-year-old Flint area youth who was shot in the right thigh by his 16-year-old hunting companion.

State Police at Manistique said Michael Moran of Mount Morris was shot by Reno Palomo, also of Mount Morris, while the two were hunting in Section 17, Hiawatha Township, about 4:45 p. m.

Moran was admitted to Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital for treatment of the wound which fractured the leg. He was later transferred to a Mount Morris hospital.

Conditions Good

Hunting conditions were rated good throughout the Upper Peninsula today. Temperatures ranged from 15 degrees to the low 20s throughout most of the U. P. The Munising and Wakefield areas received about two inches of new snow and there was a light snowfall re-

Father Gains Daughter, But Loses Volkswagen

KALAMAZOO (AP) — When Dan Opalka picks up his wife and new daughter in next day or two, he will not leave the car engine running while he's inside the hospital.

Little Kristen Leigh was delivered Sunday only after her father had one car stolen, collided with his stolen car and apprehended a young man.

Here's how it went:
At about 9:45 a.m. Sunday morning, Mrs. Opalka complained that pains indicated birth was near. Dan went outside and started the engine of their Volkswagen and then returned to help her finish packing.

When they left the house, the Volkswagen was gone. Quickly they got into the second family car and headed for Bronson Hospital. In midtown Kalamazoo, Opalka spotted his stolen car and tried to reclaim it at a stop sign. The driver of the Volkswagen sped off, ramming the Opalka's sports car in the process.

A few minutes later the youth lost control of the Volkswagen and it came to rest at an auto dealership. Opalka, close behind, collared a young man and took him to a nearby motel where he called police.

Then Mrs. Opalka was delivered to the hospital where a

Her part in "The Love Story," has not been defined, she said, but apparently she will have some lines to speak.

Agnew Is Right

Thank goodness for Spiro T. Agnew, the little Greek who became vice president of the United States.

He has been derided by the press and the electronic media since he acquired his new role. Depicted as a buffoon, Agnew is beginning to come across as an intelligent and articulate spokesman for the many who opposed the circus in our streets.

His attacks upon TV networks and newsmen for their distorted and lickety-split views of current events were justified and long overdue. The only regret is that members of the fourth estate have not taken their own to task.

With the world's most powerful and impressive media, it is deplorable that those who have the authority and responsibility for such power have permitted their media to be taken over by the one-sided know-it-alls. They have done more to create our circuses than anyone else.

This weekend's coverage of the second moratorium was another example of their bias. Apparently, the networks were unable to collaborate on the number of people attending our national shame. The estimates by our TV disciples vacillated from 200,000 to 700,000.

The encouragement given by TV to these do nothing is beyond reason. Had these multitudes whatever their number, exerted their expenditures of money, time, talent and energy to positive methods of resolving this nation's problems our solutions would be nearer at hand.

It is encouraging to note that a recent Gallup Poll reported 77 per cent of the American public supporting the President's approach to resolving the Vietnam situation.

As for Mr. Agnew, it is hoped from this corner that he shall continue to raise blunt questions concerning the conduct and attitude of our populace. The Detroit News put it aptly when it said: "What troubles Agnew's effete intellectuals and the TV commentators is that he has the temerity to answer the attacks with a forcefulness of language and a sarcasm nearly equal to their own."

Tactical Mistake

Teachers of the Big Bay de Noc school district who went on strike Monday in a "no contract, no work" dispute with the Board of Education made a mistake when they issued an "ultimatum" to the school board last weekend and on the surface, at least, it appears that the "negotiations" between the teachers and the board have deteriorated into an alley fight.

Sending a certified letter to Carl VanRemortel, president of the Board of Education, which VanRemortel received on Saturday morning — bad enough on a "normal" weekend, but nearly impossible on the opening day of deer season — with a deadline of 11 p. m. Sunday for a new contract offer was an outright attempt to intimidate the board. The teachers might just as well have stipulated noon Saturday as 11 p. m. Sunday.

And for a group which prefers to refer to its contract talks as "professional negotiations" instead of "union bargaining" the ultimatum was a very unprofessional move.

There is no question that the Big Bay de Noc Education Association has strong grounds for demanding that a new contract be drafted and ratified. Classes have been in session for better than two months without any progress — due, certainly, in part to the desire of the school board and, perhaps, the teachers to receive the recommendations from a trial examiner in an unfair labor practice hearing on the problem in September — and the longer school continues the weaker their own position becomes.

But a few more days, it doesn't seem, would have made that much difference.

Contract talks between the Board of Education and the Educational Association, an arm of the Michigan Education Association, began more than seven months ago and the teachers should be credited with going to work in September without a contract while their compatriots across the state walked out in similar circumstances. But if the purpose of working without a contract was to avoid a "work stoppage" and the discomfort that goes with it, why not be reasonable a few more days.

Bert H. Wicking, trial examiner for the Michigan Employment Relations Commission who presided at the unfair labor practice hearing against the school board, recommended only last week that the Board of Education contact a state mediator to resume bargaining immediately. This was done by the board and a meeting with mediator Walter Quillico of Kingsford is scheduled for 7:30 tonight at Garden.

If after the meeting no progress was indicated, the teachers would have been perfectly justified in taking another course of action. The way it was handled, however, can do nothing but to drive the wedge between the groups a little deeper.

Hopefully, the Board of Education and teachers will get together to bargain "in good faith." It serves no purpose for either the school board or education association to "sit" on "final" offers.

An honest disagreement is possible, but reasonable men and women should be able to resolve it. Continuation of the dispute can serve no purpose for in the long run the children wind up as the only losers.

Peninsula Potpourri

Mrs. Kenneth Byers, 63, who resides on old M-95 between Sagola and Channing, suffered second and third degree burns in a camper explosion. Police said an apparent gas leak in a heat unit in the camper caused an explosion when Mrs. Byers lit a match. She was blown out the trailer door. Her screams for help were heard by her husband, who ran out of the house and tore her flaming clothing off her. She was taken to Crystal Falls Municipal Hospital.

Anti-Pollution Efforts Should Start At Home

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, Wisconsin Democrat, who has put some excellent anti-DDT bills into the Congressional hopper, wants our college students to rally around the anti-pollution flag as their next major demonstration and teach-in project.

Some student organizations have promised to get going on "the environmental question" by next spring, presumably after a winter of marching against the Vietnamese War. I happen to think the Moratorium demonstrations are an abomination; they merely encourage Harold to hang on in hopes of getting a cheap political victory in South Vietnam.

But I am all for seeing student power get behind the crusade to clean up the landscape, to save our air, and to decontaminate our lakes and streams.

My only criticism of the Gaylord Nelson project is that it is so slow in getting off the mark. And, before the students take to marching against the use of DDT and the failure of Detroit to come up with a universally applicable anti-smog device for automobiles, why don't the boys and girls pay a little attention to what they themselves are doing to foul up the landscape?

Item One: They want a more beautiful America. But how can anyone trust their esthetic standards when they dress like Halloween hoodlums of a generation ago?

I don't mind current hair styles; in fact, it is rather amusing to walk around in a world that is like a pastiche of the whole Nineteenth Century. In any big city one can, within a single block, encounter someone who looks like Daniel Boone coming in from a month in the Kentucky wilderness, a few unscathed survivors of Custer's Last Stand, a fugitive from the cast of Shakespeare's "Troilus and Cressida" the time it was played in Civil costumes and wigs at the Shakespeare Theatre in Stratford, Conn., and a dead ringer for my grandfather when he sported a luxuriant, soup strainer moustache.

And, speaking of ancestors, the girls with their long tresses make me think of my grandmother denouncing bobbed heads by pronouncing sagely that "hair is a woman's crowning glory."

The only trouble with the hairy pastiche of the Nineteenth Century is that it comes with an encrustation of dirt. The boys and girls don't comb those long locks. The new convention is to be sloppy, and who can fight a convention? But how can they ever have the taste to clean up a neighborhood if they don't recognize litter when they see it on themselves?

Item Two: The boys and girls object to pollution in the air, the rivers, and the seas. They are quite properly concerned lest DDT in the diet of the American bald eagle upset the noble bird's calcium metabolism and so kill the fledgling eagle before it can emerge from a paper-thin shell. The boys and girls don't want to drink milk laced with poisonous strontium-90, or eat coho salmon from Lake Michigan that are filled with pesticide residues. Neither, for that matter, do I.

In praising the boys and girls for their stand against factories that poison the clams and oysters and ruin the bathing by contaminating the tidal streams, I am moved to one question: why do so many of the young pollute their own bodies by indulgence in drugs?

What is the difference between hurting yourself by swallowing DDT and deranging your senses by stuffing what is colloquially known as "hash," "acid," "goofers," "meth," "benzies," "speed" or even the supposedly non-habituating "boo," "tea," "grass" or "pot"? Just like DDT or any other pesticide, LSD and Methedrine are

Big Bay de Noc Only District Not Holding Classes

By The Associated Press

All Michigan school districts except the tiny Big Bay de Noc system in the western Upper Peninsula were open today.

The Lower Peninsula's only strike, one by over 200 teachers in the Waverly district near Lansing, came to an end Tuesday when the teachers ratified a new contract. Their action ended a walkout which began Nov. 3.

However, a new strike is threatening to develop in Grand Blanc, near Flint. Teachers there say they will strike Monday unless agreement is reached on a new contract. The teachers have been working without a contract.

FISH MANAGEMENT

During the past few weeks, the Daily Press has published several views concerning the new commercial fishing controls that have been established by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. To those views, I would like to add a few of my own.

There can be no question that the new "zone management plan" will severely hurt the commercial fishery economically. The fishermen who have, for decades, harvested perch and whitefish from Big Bay de Noc, for example, will be unable to fish at all. This single restriction represents an annual loss in excess of $100,000 to the Garden Peninsula's economy.

What are the reasons for that particular closure? Henry Vondetti, Marquette, Regional Fish Biologist for the DNR stated in the Press "... populations are showing serious signs of being further reduced unless checks are placed on the harvest rate."

If population abundance is indeed the controlling factor in this management plan, why have restrictions been placed on the fishery at a time when the whitefish and perch populations in the Green Bay area have been on a steady increase since 1960? The whitefish catch-per-effort was higher this year than in any previous year since the lamprey invasion into the waters of that area. A study done this past summer in the Green Bay area indicates that of this large catch of whitefish, 97 per cent of the fish harvested were mature in a spawning sense. The large catch and high percentage of mature fish indicates a very healthy whitefish population. This population has increased to its present level in the face of an even more extensive fishery than now exists in the Green Bay-Bay de definitely pollutants, and who can be sure about marijuana?

An internally freaked-out adolescent human being is no more desirable than a freaked-out, mother bald eagle. And why is it any more intelligent to get hepatitis from a dirty drug injection needle than it is to catch the same malady from a dirty oyster or clam?

I'll believe in the integrity of the young crusaders against a befouled landscape and a polluted air and water when the boys and girls begin to stress habits of personal cleanliness and stop polluting themselves with drugs.

It's a case of "physician, heal thyself." And it's no excuse to say that the drinking habits of the middle-aged justify the growth of the drug culture among the young. Just as two wrongs do not make a right, two sets of stupidities do not add up to anything that can be called wisdom. Drunken parents and drugged offspring are equally deplorable.

We've all heard of the credibility gap.

Well, if the young can't stop smoking reefer themselves, who will listen to them when they become self-righteous about the smoke that comes out of the Consolidated Edison stacks?

West led the A-K and another club to declarer's jack. South thereupon made the standard safety play of first leading the ace of trumps, which was sure to limit his trump losers to one even if the spades proved to be divided 4-1.

But East unexpectedly showed out on the first trump lead and South had to reassess the situation to see whether or not it was still possible to restrict himself to only one trump loser.

After much cogitation he concluded that his only chance of making ten tricks depended on finding West with exactly three hearts and two diamonds. Accordingly he cashed the A-K-Q of hearts and K-A of diamonds, at which point this became the position:

Declarer led the nine of diamonds and West suddenly found that regardless of what he played he could make only one trump trick.

Thus, if he ruffed with the ten of spades, declarer would simply discard the queen of clubs from dummy and easily make the last three tricks, whatever West returned.

Alternatively, if West ruffed with the seven of spades, declarer would overruff in dummy with the nine and trump the queen of clubs with the four to endplay West and thus accomplish his impossible mission.

Honest Repairman Swings Greasy Mop

Dear Ann Landers: The wet noodle won't do for this one. You deserve ten lashes with a greasy shop rag.

I am an independent garage owner and we do a lot of car repair work. Your suggestion that a customer stands less of a chance of getting gypped if he will take his car to the dealer was a slur against all the honest repair people who work very hard — and there are a lot of us.

I've spent many an evening repairing a vehicle for someone who had to travel the next day. Last night I worked until midnight to accommodate a customer who needed his car to make a living. And speaking of getting stuck — I've never kited a bill in my life, but a lot of people have stuck me.

I think you owe us honest repairmen an apology, and it ought to appear in the newspaper and not just in a personal letter to me. — Joe R.

Dear Joe: I think so, too. Here it is — in the newspaper. I apologize to all the honest repairmen everywhere. And if there are any women in the field, I apologize to them, too.

Dear Ann Landers: I know you are busy so I'll make it snappy. We have five children. Our oldest son is married to a lovely girl who, unfortunately, does not get along with one of our daughters. These two are like fire and kerosene.

Our youngest son will be coming home from Boot camp soon. I want to have a family dinner. If I ask my daughter-in-law, I'm afraid my daughter will not come. If I ask my daughter, I'm afraid my daughter-in-law will not come. If I ask them both, I'm afraid neither of them will come.

There's an outside chance they both MIGHT come and that would be the worst thing of all. I'd be on needles and pins all night.

Tell me what to do. — Mama-In-The-Middle

Dear Mama: Rise above the battle and invite them both. If one or the other chooses to stay away — fine. You did the right thing by inviting them. If they both come and behave badly, the reflection is on them, not you.

Dear Ann Landers: This is a complaint from a group you can call "The Omitted Ones." What do you think of clods who invite half the town's population to a dry wedding reception? By "dry" I mean fruit punch and coffee and cookies. The "Sunday school picnic" ended at 5:30 then a select few — about 50 — were invited to a cocktail party where the real stuff was poured. If this isn't discrimination and social injustice, what do you call it? We'd appreciate it if you're respond in strong language. — Three Outcasts From Dry Gulch

Dear Outcasts: If it's strong language you want, I just happen to have some handy. Your indignation at not having been invited to soak up the free booze gets me right here. I've seen your kind — perpetual free-loaders with hollow legs and sponges for toes. No doubt the hostess knew what she was doing when she invited you for fruit punch and cookies. It's a wise hostess who knows who can be trusted around an open bar.

Confidential to Off Cigarettes, Off Liquor and Dieting: Take heed of George Eliot's line — "If you really want to know about your fellow man's miseries, go look at his pleasures." Don't despair, Doll. The battle is worth the sacrifice!

Ann Landers' book, "Truth Is Stranger," a collection of her best columns over the past 14 years is available at book stores. It can also be obtained by writing Prentice Hall, Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey. Price $4.95.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. © Publishers-Hall Syndicate

The women of the Mission church will hold an auction sale Friday evening in the church parlors. Following the sale refreshments will be served.

Manager L. J. Jacobs of the Delft and Strand theaters announces that hereafter all children not accompanied by their parents will be charged the full admission to the show houses. This decision was made as a measure of cooperating with Supt. W. E. Olds of the public schools, who urges this as a means of stimulating attendance in school. He believes it will avoid keeping the children up too late and that it will work out beneficially to all concerned.

Letters To The Press

FISH MANAGEMENT

During the past few weeks, the Daily Press has published several views concerning the new commercial fishing controls that have been established by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. To those views, I would like to add a few of my own.

There can be no question that the new "zone management plan" will severely hurt the commercial fishery economically. The fishermen who have, for decades, harvested perch and whitefish from Big Bay de Noc, for example, will be unable to fish at all. This single restriction represents an annual loss in excess of $100,000 to the Garden Peninsula's economy.

What are the reasons for that particular closure? Henry Vondetti, Marquette, Regional Fish Biologist for the DNR stated in the Press "... populations are showing serious signs of being further reduced unless checks are placed on the harvest rate."

If population abundance is indeed the controlling factor in this management plan, why have restrictions been placed on the fishery at a time when the whitefish and perch populations in the Green Bay area have been on a steady increase since 1960? The whitefish catch-per-effort was higher this year than in any previous year since the lamprey invasion into the waters of that area. A study done this past summer in the Green Bay area indicates that of this large catch of whitefish, 97 per cent of the fish harvested were mature in a spawning sense. The large catch and high percentage of mature fish indicates a very healthy whitefish population. This population has increased to its present level in the face of an even more extensive fishery than now exists in the Green Bay-Bay de

Noc area.

One must therefore conclude that DNR officials are off base when they indicate serious current declines in whitefish populations as a reason to close off the Bay de Noc area. It simply is not the case.

The commercial fishery has been under almost constant harassment during the entire period of Dr. Wayne Tody's DNR Fish Division leadership. The tone for DNR policy, official or otherwise, was vocalized during the May 8, 1967, Lake Michigan Committee meeting by a DNR official: "... there should be room for both fisheries (sports and commercial). It seemed likely, however, that the public would demand exclusion of commercial operations."

Fish Division officials have, during this period, displayed highly questionable tactics to arouse a public outcry against the commercial fishery. A statement made in the MUCC bulletin during the effort to ban gill nets in 1967 by Tody: "The incidental catch of coho salmon by gill netters is also very high with at least 20,000 netted from Indiana waters in a brief April period," is both misleading and in part, completely false. There was, at that time, almost no incidental catch of coho; the Indiana catch was a legal one using a floater net, quite different from those used in Michigan waters. A more recent statement by Tody alleged that the current fishery was capable of destroying 10 times the annual production of Lake Michigan. I feel quite sure that Dr. Tody realized that his statement to that effect was extremely misleading to the public. I personally resent a person representing the public trust in such an unethical manner.

I do not argue with the concept of commercial fishing regulations based on adequate information to determine controls for the long range benefit of the Lakes' total ecosystem. However, the DNR has done little to gather adequate information to establish sensible regulations. The most comprehensive research done in the past few years on the Green Bay whitefish population characteristics was done by a 16-year-old boy. The DNR should be gathering 100 times as much information of fish characteristics in the Great Lakes as it now does. There is currently far too little reliable data to establish any kind of a comprehensive fishery management plan.

Even the data that is available to the DNR is often misinterpreted. A 1967 lake trout catch projection based on a small non-stratified sample, was grossly overestimated. DNR officials simply refused to realize that their sample was biased. It obviously was.

The problem of DNR policy goes far beyond the current injustices depending on the individuals being done to the lake's resources for their livelihood. The resources themselves are being controlled by individuals not responsive to the public needs and in a manner inconsistent with sound ecological principles of resource use. Unless a more scientific approach is adopted soon, the Great Lakes will continue to be narrowly managed. I suggest that a top-caliber limnologist be installed to direct the Great Lakes management program.

E. Dan Stevens,
Fayette

Priceless Art Collection Goes To Institute

DETROIT (AP) — One of the nation's richest private art collections — of priceless Picassos, Renoirs, Van Goghs and other masterpieces — has hung for years largely unguarded, nominally insured and mostly unseen.

Until his death Sept. 25, Robert Hudson Tannahill quietly gathered art treasures worth considerably over $10 million, according to a Detroit art expert.

Tannahill hung them unpretentiously around his modest four bedroom home outside the Motor City. Only the closest friends of the 76-year-old bachelor art lover ever saw his prizes.

The Detroit Institute of Arts Tuesday was named heir to the collection, under the stipulation in Tannahill's will that his life's work, the gathering of some 450 objects of art, never be sold or disposed of piecemeal.

No estimate on the Tannahill contribution has been made. Legal papers filed with his will indicated his estate was in excess of $600,000.

The shy relative of the Ford auto family had insured his acquisitions for $1.5 million. For years he carried no insurance on them.

Willis F. Woods, director of the Detroit Institute of Arts, said the collection should have been insured for "considerably more than $10 million — considerably more."

Tannahill possessed what Woods said were two of Pierre Auguste Renoir's finest works, "Seated Bather" and "White Clown." Other artists represented are Cezanne, Degas, Matisse, Rouault, Gauguin, Picasso, Van Gogh, Monet, Modigliani and scores of other outstanding 19th and 20th century artists.

He purchased Cezanne's portrait of his wife in the 1930s for under $30,000. Some art critics say it would bring at least $750,000 on auction today.

Woods said that only in recent years had Tannahill installed a burglar alarm at his home. The Museum director said no works had been stolen from the unpretentious white brick home.

His mother was a sister to Mrs. William Clay, the mother of Mrs. Edsel Ford. He is also related to J. L. Hudson, founder of Detroit's major department store.

His housekeeper for 16 years, Maude McCall, said, "In the evenings he would sit in the upstairs library and read and look at the paintings."

NEW DAIRY BARN — Dairy farming has been modernized. This new dairy barn was built recently by Sahn Bros. of Rapid River. It is 40-feet wide, 120-feet long, and 35-feet high. According to Delta County Extension Agent Joe Heirman, the barn will house fifty dairy cows plus young stock. The barn has sufficient storage area for food for the winter. It also has the most recent modern conveniences such as a pipeline milker, automatic drinking cups, and an electric barn cleaner. The barn's temperature is controlled by fans operated by a thermostat.

Michigan 1970 License Plates Pretty, But Hard To Read

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's 1970 license plate colors—white on gold—may be lovely to look at but are rough to read, according to top police officials.

"An unfortunate combination as far as visibility is concerned," Col. Fredrick Davids, State Police director, told the State Safety Commission Tuesday.

Davids agreed with Kalamazoo Police Chief Dean Fox, president of the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police, who had complained the plates are hard to read.

Visibility Test

Paul Chase, representing the Corrections Department prison industries, said the department made a visibility test of the plates.

The law only requires that the plates be readable at a distance of 100 feet and have a "marked contrast" in colors.

Chase admitted the test was made in clear sunshine.

"I wear glasses but I could read them at 100 feet," Chase said. "Some people could read them from 122 to 148 feet."

Letters-Numbers Merge

Davids said the letters and numerals tend to merge into each other at a distance. Sheriff's departments and citizens as well as police have complained about the difficulty of making out the plates, Davids said.

"Police don't always have the chance to spot them under ideal conditions," Davids said.

"For instance, if you were trying to make out the plates of a car speeding toward you at a road block," he explained, "it would be tough at 100 feet. You would have to start moving or otherwise you might be a grease spot."

Honors Oakland U.

Secretary of State James Hare said the white and gold colors were selected to honor Oakland University.

"They claim they can see them at 300 feet," Hare joked. "With binoculars?" asked Davids.

Chase said if any change is wanted for the colors next year, prison industries should be notified soon. Colors have to be tested, he explained, and the prison industries will start manufacturing the 1971 plates by next March 1.

Bigger Letters Asked

Chase suggested the letters and numerals could be made higher and more legible if the slogan "Great Lake State" were dropped. He conceded this idea might not be popular.

Mrs. Winsor Dunbar, of the Isabella County Safety Commission, had an alternate suggestion.

"Why not put the state tree or bird or fish on the plates?" she asked.

Those present were intrigued by the idea. But they saw some difficulties in trying to depict a white pine, a robin or a trout on the license plates.

New Plan Formulated

Other similar possibilities would be the state stone, or the state flower, the apple blossom.

It was agreed representatives of the state's law enforcement agencies will be consulted before colors are selected for the 1972 license plates.

Hare, who has announced he will not be a candidate for another term as secretary of state, said he also wanted to give up chairmanship of the safety commission, a post he has held for the past 15 years.

Davids To Remain

He added Gov. William Milliken had urged him to remain as commission chairman. Davids was nominated as chairman by Hare and elected by a unanimous vote.

Davids reported State Police will start Dec. 1 on a safety inspection of the some 9,600 public school buses in the state. Parochial schools also may have their buses inspected on request, he said.

The uniform inspection will either meet or exceed federal standards, Davids said. It will be completed by March 15.

Consumers In State To Have Top Director

LANSING (AP)—If a Harvard trained lady lawyer and a relatively new state agency are successful, Michigan consumers will be armed with the savvy of old-time horse traders when they try to sort out space-age advertising claims.

Dianne McKaig, newly appointed executive director of the Michigan Consumers Council, Tuesday outlined what the three-year-old state agency hopes to do to help the consumer get a more product bang for his spending buck.

Miss McKaig, until her appointment, directed the U.S. Health, Education and Welfare Department's consumer services office and formerly served as an attorney in the U.S. Labor Department.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, an ex officio member of the nine-member council, said expanded activities of the council led him to "anticipate more mobilization and more meaningful enforcement" of state consumer laws.

"There was a time when this was a rather lonely vigil," Kelley said. "There were those who thought we were sent in from Moscow to destroy the capitalist system."

A combination of "education, legislation and tough law enforcement," Kelley said, could easily minimize the number of fraudulent consumer practices such as home improvement rackets.

One of the council's major staff projects, Miss McKaig said will be to publicize available product data, legal standards and marketing practices gleaned from state agencies, university researchers or industry.

That would be done in a council bulletin, published periodically, she said.

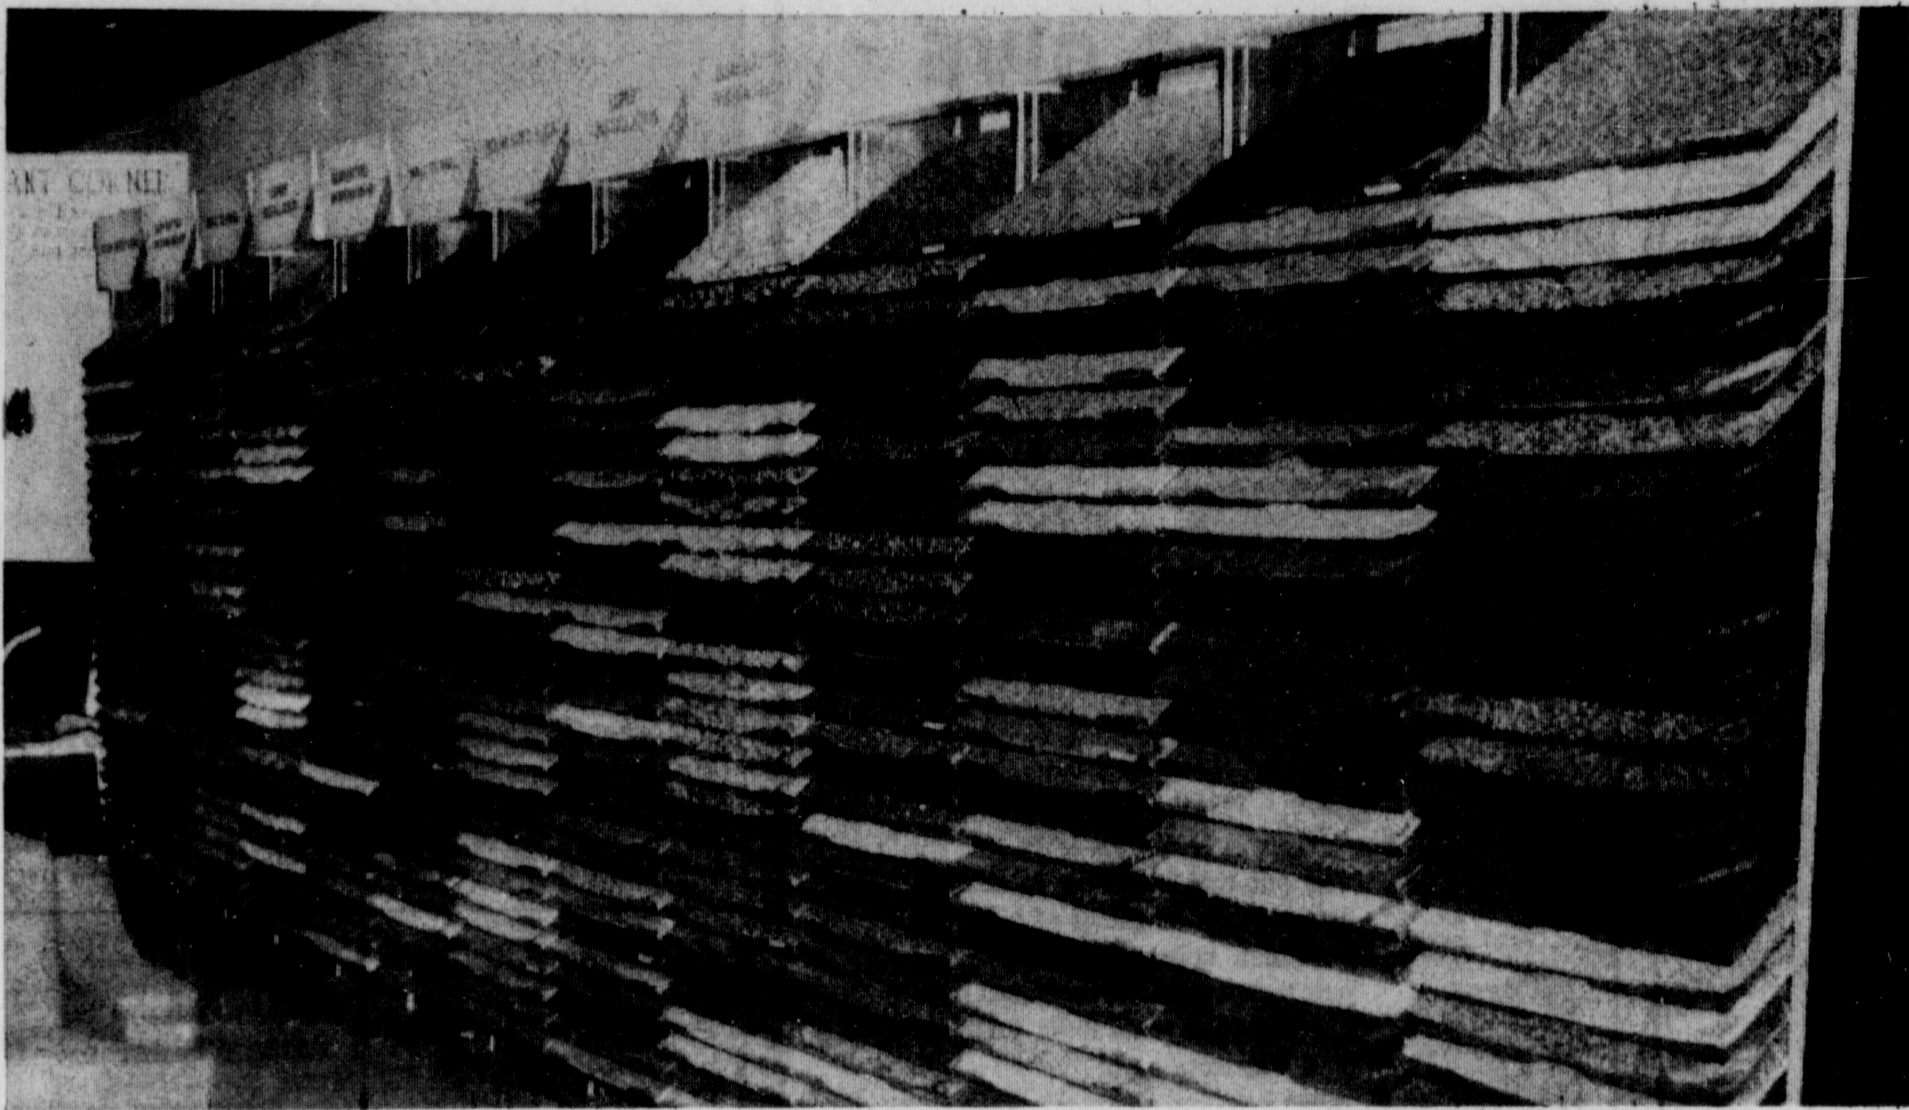

Reinstated

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit policeman recently acquitted of beating a Negro youth at the city's Veterans' Memorial last year has been reinstated on the police force.

Patrolman Leo T. Haidys Jr., 35, began work Monday in the Vernor Precinct where he had served prior to his suspension last November. He was tried on an assault charge stemming from the Nov. 1, 1968 beating of James Evans, 20. He was acquitted Oct. 16.

RETARDED YOUNGSTERS learn many useful things at the recently opened Sheltered Workshop in Escanaba, a facility sponsored by the Retarded Children's Association of Delta County and supported with public contributions. Pictured is the exterior of the building at 2310 6th Ave. N. and some of students engaged in training activities. (Daily Press Photos)

New Workshop Aids Retarded With Training

A new training center and sheltered workshop has been opened by the Retarded Children's Association of Delta County in its continuing effort to help all retarded children of the county.

Eligible for training enrollment are all children and young people under 21 years of age, and the goal is for them to learn to do constructive things and prepare them for a better and more useful life.

These children will learn to make many different items with the help of two teachers, and these items will in time be placed on sale to help defray the cost of operating the training center.

National Merit Scholarship Test Scheduled Here

Escanaba Area Public High School juniors who expect to complete their secondary school requirements and to enter college in 1971 can register now to participate in the 1970-71 National Merit Scholarship Program, Counselor Thomas Hughson announced today.

The first step for all students who wish to enter the nationwide Merit Scholarship competition is to take the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMQST). The test will be given in the school on Tuesday, Feb. 17, 1970. NMQST participants pay a $1.25 test fee.

Taking the NMQST is also the first step for students who wish to participate in other scholarship programs administered by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC).

The highest-scoring students in each state will be named Merit Program Semifinalists and will be eligible for Merit Scholarship consideration. In addition to the National Merit Scholarships financed by NMSC, more than 400 business corporations, foundations, colleges, professional associations, unions, trusts, other organizations, and individuals offer scholarships through the Merit Program.

About 21,800 students have won Merit Scholarships in the 14 programs to date. Approximately 3,125 new winners of Merit Scholarships entered college this fall.

In the past three years eight EAPHS students became semifinalists.

The new center is located in the former Erling Arntzen office and warehouse located at 2310 6th Ave. N., across from the T. D. Vinette Iron Works, and consists of a reception and interviewing room and business office plus a workshop space of 30 x 50 with a large fenced in yard for storage.

The two teachers are Mrs. Karen Artley and Mrs. Lois Zimmerman who are former teachers at the J. F. Kennedy School and have been sent by the Association to many workshops in the past to prepare them for this assignment. At present there are four children in training with more to be entered as soon as possible.

Application for persons wishing to enter this training center may be either in person at the center or by mail to the Retarded Children's Association, Box 157, Escanaba, Mich., and an interview will be arranged.

All children "graduating" from the J. F. Kennedy School will be eligible to enter the new center.

The cost of operating the center is borne by the Retarded Children's Association of Delta County, which must obtain all of its operating money by gifts from a generous public and anyone wishing to help the Association with this project will be welcomed.

The Retarded Children's Association is incorporated as a non-profit organization and has no paid officers, so that every cent given goes for the welfare of these children. All gifts are tax free.

Big Bay de Noc Teachers Issue 'Fact' Statement

GARDEN — The Big Bay de Noc Education Association today took issue with a statement made by Superintendent of Schools Frank Stupak in regard to the teacher walkout at the school district.

Teachers refused to report to classes Monday after the Board of Education failed to respond to an ultimatum adopted by the Education Association last Friday and received by the school board Saturday.

The ultimatum gave the Board of Education until 11 p. m., Sunday to reach an agreement with the teacher group.

Stupak said the teachers, before calling a strike, should have requested a meeting with the Board of Education at the "earliest possible date."

Statement Issued

The teachers, who will meet with the Board of Education and Walter Quillico of Kingsford, state labor mediator, at 7:30 p. m., today at the Garden Community Building, issued the following statement this morning:

"In Monday's Escanaba Daily Press, Mr. Frank Stupak makes the statement to the effect that he is critical of the teachers for calling a strike without attempting to meet with the board.

"The facts are that a message was sent to the school board request a meeting over the weekend any time up to 11 p. m., on Sunday night. This message was sent to the board by certified mail and it was confirmed that the board received it.

"The message was received on Saturday morning, two days before the work stoppage. It would seem that an attempt was made by the teachers to meet with the board before the walkout occurred.

Meeting Arranged

"The question of who has the obligation to initiate meetings to settle is an interesting one. The trial examiner has ordered the board to make the necessary contacts and to report the results within seven days. The board satisfied this order by contacting the state labor mediator, Walter Quillico, who set up a meeting for Wednesday night (tonight).

"There is no reason why the board could not meet with the teachers before this time in view of the fact that after the last mediation meeting the board refuted the results of mediation.

"If the teachers of the Big Bay de Noc School District are guilty of a work stoppage it is only because they have been pushed to the point where they have no alternative. The board was found guilty of failure to bargain and they were ordered to cease and desist from this kind of action. The board has made no attempt to meet with

France To Talk To UPCAP Here

Alfred France, federal chairman of the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission, Washington, will be the featured speaker Dec. 2 at the quarterly meeting of the delegate body of the Upper Peninsula Committee for Area Progress (UPCAP) in Escanaba.

The meeting is scheduled to begin with registration at 9:30 a. m., at the Catherine Bonifas Civic Center.

Harold Dettman of St. Ignace, chairman, said tours of the expanded Harnischfeger Corp. and Escanaba Paper Co. plants are being arranged by Harold Vanlerberghe of Escanaba, delegate from Delta County.

He said the group also will consider actions to reconstitute UPCAP under Acts 281 and 46, to incorporate UPCAP, and to approve the renewal of the Economic Opportunity grant for technical assistance and training and the Legal Services grant.

the teachers other than the mediation session. It is the opinion of the teachers in the district that the board is ignoring the trial examiner's order to start bargaining at the 'earliest possible convenience.'

"If personal commitments prevent a public official from fulfilling his obligation to the people that elected him, then it is high time the people demand that the public official either do his job or resign."

Drydock Tips For Boaters

Cleaning out and washing off a boat before putting it into winter storage may be preparation enough. Then again, it might not be.

Marine stores carry a surprising variety of preservative materials for use on a boat's equipment and powerplant, point out boating authorities. A few ounces of prevention, purchased in a can or bottle, can be worth many pounds of cure, paraphrase an old saying.

Most powerboats have considerable bright metal trim on them. An assortment of products are sold in aerosol cans which do a quick job of applying corrosion-preventing oils, waxes and silicones to such parts. For protecting bright hardware under more severe conditions such as outdoor storage, a plastic coating is available which when applied forms a tough plastic skin. When recommissioning time comes, it can readily be peeled off, exposing a clean, bright metal surface.

Spray-on preservatives for external surfaces of marine powerplants do much to keep the exterior in general, and external moving parts in particular, clean and free-moving. Other preservatives are made to be injected into the carburetors of idling motors, to thoroughly coat a motor's bearings and cylinders with effective and long-lasting substances. Although fiberglass won't rot or corrode, its plastic surface can fade from exposure to the elements. There's no better preservative for a fiberglass boat than an annual going-over with fiberglass cleaner-polish followed by treatment with fiberglass wax.

When in covered storage, wooden parts of boats dry out opening joints and seams. That is the time to go over the topsides of a wooden or wood-trimmed boat with an oil can filled with colorless wood preservative. The dry wood will drink it up and be protected from rot when it again becomes damp from rain and spray.

There are preservatives for the working parts of marine toilets, for plastics used in trim and upholstery, and for many other things. There are fluids with which to fill a larger boat's drinking water system to keep it sweet during storage.

Visit your marine dealer and take a good long look at all the cans and bottles on his shelves. Chances are you'll buy several, and your boat will benefit greatly from them.

Education Unit Pays Tribute To Dr. Augenstein

LANSING (AP) — State Board of Education members paid high tribute to one of their members, the late Dr. Leroy Augenstein, Tuesday night. However, they later turned down two of his proposals.

The board did agree to study one of Augenstein's major interests — the treatment of youthful drug abusers. But members rejected his plans to consider certain drug cases under child abuse laws and dismissed with little discussion an Augenstein, a 41-year-old Michigan State University biophysicist, died Nov. 8 in a private plane crash near Charlotte. He had served on the board since 1967.

With his empty chair draped in black during the session, board members paid tribute to the scientist-professor's "dedication, convictions, energy and ability."

"Dr. Augenstein's relative youth heightens the tragedy of his passing since the result of his public service in years to come would surely have surpassed his accomplishments," the board members agreed in a resolution.

One board member, Dr. Edwin L. Novak, of Flint said he planned to call today for payment of Augenstein's unused State Board of Education compensation to Augenstein's family.

BANNED AND O.K. — The Hicksville, N. Y., School Board said "No" to these hip-hugger bell bottom slacks 15-year-old Lori Scott wears, but apparently her miniskirt is O.K. Lori's mother, a welfare recipient, says she can't afford the prescribed clothes, so she's taken the case to court. The judge requested further written briefs. (Briefs!)

Wants Funds Allocated To Poor White Schools

LANSING (AP) — Pressing his fight to make sure poor white schools share in special state funds, Rep. Joseph Swallow is claiming concessions today from the Michigan Board of Education.

After a meeting with Asst. Atty. Gen. Eugene Krasicky, Swallow said late Tuesday he had assurances the board soon would rewrite its definition of "underprivileged children."

This means poor, nonmigrant whites would be considered underprivileged by the same standard as Negroes, Spanish-speaking groups and migrant whites.

Swallow, R-Alpena, said an agreement also was being completed today in which the board would give "fair consideration" in the future to including additional factors as a measure of cultural and economic deprivation.

These would be sparse population, housing, and number of retired persons living on fixed incomes in a geographical area.

Krasicky represented the board in discussions with Swallow, who is negotiating concessions as the price for withholding court action.

The House bowed to Swallow last week and the Senate is his next target as he seeks a redefinition of board-adopted rules on what constitutes cultural and economic deprivation.

The Legislature passed the law specifying aid to schools in areas with cultural and economic deprivation, but definitions were left to the Board of Education.

Swallow says the law is all right if the definitions are straightened out so that poor white areas of northern Michigan have the same chance for funds as black areas of southern Michigan.

The Board of Education can change the definitions on its own but a redistribution of the points or changes in the law would have to come from the Legislature.

Swallow filed suit last month after the $8.7 million provided by the Legislature fell short of funding some schools which sought funds. One school shut out was the Mio-AuSable school in Oscoda County of northern Michigan. Swallow claimed all the schools which got money had a high proportion of blacks, and that the reason was the definition of "underprivileged children."

As one of five guidelines for determining eligibility for the funds, this category can provide up to 25 of the maximum 73 points a school can claim. Any school which cannot claim points in this category is at a disadvantage if there is not enough money for everyone. The schools with the most points get funded first.

Earlier this month, Circuit Judge Jack Warren granted an injunction against the scheduled distribution of funds Dec. 1. But then Swallow began working for concessions.

He agreed to hold back if enough additional money was provided to fund all schools which applied — including Mio-AuSable. The figure was $1.5 million. He also insisted on changes in the definitions for cultural and economic deprivation.

Just before adjourning last Thursday for a two-week recess of the Legislature, the House hurriedly agreed to the additional money.

Swallow apparently now has his concessions on definitions. Now it is up to the Senate, which does not come back until Dec. 2—a day after the funds are to be sent out.

Swallow says he has not yet had the injunction signed. So if he gets assurances in the meantime that the Senate will provide the additional funds, presumably the money could go out on time or only a few days late.

If Swallow runs into opposition, he has the injunction as a club.

Governor Issues Thanksgiving Proclamation

LANSING (AP) — As Thanksgiving approaches, Gov. William Milliken says Americans should remember that "greatness came to our ancestors only after great turmoil and trial."

In a proclamation officially designating Nov. 27 as Thanksgiving, the governor said:

"Despite the differences and difficulties which at times seem to divide us as Americans, we recognize that God indeed has dealt kindly with this nation and its people."

"So, on Thanksgiving Day, Americans gather to thank God for his goodness and in giving such thanks, many vow afresh to seek to narrow the attitude and issues which tend to divide us as a people and to strengthen that which will bind us more closely," Milliken said.

He mentioned war in Asia, strife in many other parts of the world and "problems at home (that) create for many a sense of uncertainty regarding our nation's future."

"In one of this country's most perilous hours, Abraham Lincoln said: 'I still have confidence that the Almighty, the universe, will, through the instrumentality of this great and intelligent people, bring us through this as he has through all the other difficulties of our country.'"

"Through dedication to the principles which first gave this nation its strength, we shall overcome our adversities and so, as we observe Thanksgiving this year, let us offer our nation the best that is within us," the governor urged.

Eggbornsville Natives Angry At Apollo Crew

EGGBORNSVILLE, Va. (AP) — If those Apollo 12 fellows get the moon all riled up again they'll have the angry masses of Eggbornsville to deal with when they get home.

This isolated mountain community's entire population of 50 is preparing for the worst. After all, they'll tell you, after that Apollo 11 landing on the moon, Eggbornsville had the worst rains and floods in its history.

Some Eggbornsville residents spent the weekend stocking their houses from cellar to attic with food, water and wood in preparation for what one resident has predicted will be "the worst blizzard since '98."

One elderly Eggbornsville woman paused as she carted firewood into her house and voiced angry disapproval of America's space scientists. "They don't know what they're doing," she growled. "They're foolin' around with things that don't concern them."

Not far down the road her neighbor was also stocking her house with provisions. "If them nasty nauts keep messin' around up there they're going to set the world on fire," she predicted.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

Rate Discipline Among Values In School Football

The training and discipline that comes with participation in high school football are values that help build character, Escanaba Area Public High School football coaches told the Rotary Club Tuesday noon.

The speakers were Jerry Cvengros, head football coach, Jim Hirn, line coach, and Frank Miketnac, junior varsity coach. They were introduced by Art Westby of the Rotary program committee and the meeting was conducted by Thomas Straebel, club president.

Cvengros said that he is "proud of the football program the Board of Education has provided for the Escanaba Area," and described the expansion of the program starting with football in the seventh grade.

Participation is stressed and there are four teams and coaches in Junior High School, six games are played against each other by the four teams, and there are upwards of 125 boys playing football at the Junior High level.

Coach 20 Years

In Senior High there's a new program—freshman football—for which about 75 turned out at the beginning of the season. Forty stuck it out and play a seven-game schedule against outside teams, Cvengros reported.

"At the JV level we find a position for each boy, based on his size and ability," said Miketnac, junior varsity coach. There are freshman-sophomore football programs, with separate schedules for each.

"I enjoy working with those kids," said Miketnac, who has been coaching for 20 years.

"Football is a game and it should be fun—and so we design a program that is fun for the boys," said Hirn, line coach. "We try to get all of the boys into the game."

Football is changing, Hirn added. "There's a multitude of defenses, and even in high school there's never the same play the second time running." The emphasis is on training and discipline.

Praises Fan Club

Summarizing, Cvengros listed three main features of the football program:

- 1—Participation is encouraged and there are now about 250 boys from grades 7-12, inclusive, in the program.
- 2—Boys do want to play, they are dedicated, they want to win, and winning is emphasized as a desirable goal for the game.
- 3—Citizen interest is high and the program has received a lot of help from Rollie Collins and the Eskey Fan Club, with the lighting of the athletic field a tribute to the generosity of the public and a gift of the poles from the Harnischfeger Corp.

With night games attendance has increased 100 per cent, said Cvengros. He expressed appreciation for the work of the Fan Club and said that it is continuing its planning for additional improvements.

Animal Entrails Dropped On Army Recruiting Data

DETROIT (AP) — Animal blood and fowl entrails were dumped on military recruiting materials in the lobby of the University of Detroit Student Union Tuesday.

A witness said six young men formed a line in front of the Navy and Marine recruiters' tables and dumped the blood and intestines on the literature and posters on display. The protesters then fled.

Navy Lt. Joseph Petlow was standing nearby at the time, but was not spattered by the blood. The Marine recruiter was not present during the incident.

University officials said the action came less than two hours after a complaint was filed with the schools Student Court charging that military recruiters get preferential treatment over recruiters.

Ex-JP Jailed

LUDINGTON (AP) — Philip Dyer Jr., a former Scottville justice of the peace, has begun serving a one-year jail sentence for failing to repay $7,188 he was convicted of appropriating for his own use while in office.

Dyer was sentenced Sept. 9 after pleading guilty to the charge. He was fined $150 and $150 costs plus a one-year jail term if he failed to repay the money within 60 days.

Southern Auto Trip Just Weighty Affair

NEW YORK (AP) — They say travel is broadening, and I'll add my weight to that statement.

Probe Continues In Girl's Murder

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — Authorities today are continuing their investigation of the savage murder of a 14-year-old Battle Creek girl.

The partially nude body of Diana Lynn Black was found Tuesday in a field in Battle Creek Township.

While the cause of death had not officially been determined, officials said the girl may have been strangled and sexually assaulted.

Authorities in both Battle Creek and Washtenaw County said Tuesday they saw no connection between the murder of Miss Black and the slayings of seven young women in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area during a two-year period.

Miss Black, a student at Lakeview High School, had been missing since Nov. 9. Her body was found about a quarter mile from the school.

Mrs. Nixon Mum On Clothes Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Richard M. Nixon says she won't disclose how much she spends on clothes, but she says she is really conservative about purchases for her wardrobe.

The First Lady brushed aside a survey of designers which indicated she had spent some $19,000 for clothes since her husband became President in January.

"Have you seen it walking around? Have you seen me in 65 new outfits?" Mrs. Nixon said in talking with newsmen Tuesday.

In response to a question, Mrs. Nixon said she does not have an allowance from the President.

"No, he doesn't check on me. He knows how conservative I am," she said.

Discrimination Charged By Two Michigan Women

LANSING (AP) — Two women employees of a Traverse City firm have claimed discrimination because they were not allowed to take examinations for jobs involving lifting 35 pounds or more.

The State Civil Rights Commission, meeting Tuesday at Lansing, heard a report from a hearing referee that the policy was "unreasonable, arbitrary and in violation of the Fair Employment Practices Act."

The commission is expected to make a decision on the case at its next meeting.

The complaints were filed by Mrs. Marion Becker and Mrs. Helen Marentette, employees of Burwood Products Co. of Traverse City. They said they were denied the chance to take promotional examinations for better jobs because they involved the lifting of 35 pounds or more.

A commission hearing panel said the intent of the Fair Employment Practices Act was "that the health and safety of females be taken into consideration, but not be used to contain them in lower, less paying departments or classifications."

FUNDS FOR SEMINARIES

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The American Association of Theological Schools, an interdenominational organization made up of 174 seminaries in the country, has received a grant of $450,000 from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation to further the association's program of accreditation, research and raising seminary standards.

Hackel Cited

HOUSTON (AP) — Dr. Emanuel Hackel, chairman of the Michigan State University Department of Natural Science, has been cited for "meritorious and outstanding achievement for work in blood groups and blood banking."

The American Association of Blood Banks honored him with the Emily Cooley Award, granted to a member who gives "sustained service of a high order."

Longest Strike In AMC History Comes To End

RACINE, Wis. (AP) — American Motors employees were to begin returning to work today after the No. 4 U.S. automaker and the United Auto Workers Union reached tentative agreement Tuesday night on a one-year contract—ending the longest strike in the firm's history.

In a joint statement, negotiators for UAW Local 72, representing about 6,000 workers in Kenosha, and AMC announced the new pact, which is to run to Oct. 16, 1970.

The settlement was announced "pending final review of final contract language and settlement of outstanding grievances."

Negotiations continued late into the night, but a spokesman said complete agreement probably would be reached early today.

The statement said workers at the Milwaukee parts plant were to report at their normal times today. Startup plans for the Milwaukee body and Kenosha plants had not been determined.

Union members were to vote on ratification after production resumed, the statement said.

PTA Plans All-Out Parochial Battle

LANSING (AP) — Proclaiming parochial "a death sentence on the public school system," the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers is marshalling forces to work toward its defeat in the House of Representatives.

Mrs. Jane Tate, Congress president, Tuesday called the nearly 300,000 PTA members across the state to a Lansing meeting Dec. 2-3, when the Legislature is to reconvene after a two-week recess.

PTA members, she said, must "oppose parochial before it slides through the House as it did the Senate."

The upper chamber approved a $1 billion-plus state school aid bill, including $25 million for the state aid to nonpublic schools, late last week before adjourning. The vote was 22-15.

At the same time, the Senate barely approved a measure repealing the current property tax credit against the income tax. That vote was 20-17.

Mrs. Tate—and some lawmakers—contended a few senators traded their votes on the property tax bill in exchange for consideration of the parochial section of the school aid proposal.

The parochial vote, she said, "issued a death sentence on the public school system in Michigan and committed our children, who are the innocent pawns in the wheeling and dealing that has gone on here, to an imprisonment of educational deprivation such as the citizens of this state have never before witnessed."

Mrs. Tate accused the governor and some legislators of doing what, "in their vested interest opinions, would get them re-elected regardless of the effect of their actions on the public school children of this state."

Mrs. Tate said she believed parochial forces were "better organized" than the general public, which she contended opposes state grants to nonpublic schools.

"PTA for one, fully intends to let the people know what went on here last week and to show the Legislature the opposition to parochial in this state in the only manner which seems to register with them—a gallery full of people watching what they do," Mrs. Tate said.

"If we lose this battle, we've lost all hope for public education in Michigan," she declared.

Tax Vote Set

CADILLAC (AP) — City commissioners have set Feb. 10 for a referendum on whether Cadillac should impose a city income tax.

Cadillac voters rejected an earlier attempt to impose the one per cent tax upon residents and one half of one per cent tax on non residents.

HOME AWAY FROM HOME — Joe Nasher, a deer hunter from Birmingham, Mich., is taking a phone call and having a real cup of wine off a table he and his two hunting partners brought from home so they could eat in "class." The flowers are real, and we only drink the wine to cut the chill," Joe said. The party of three hold a daily luncheon on the set up which can be seen on the side of County Rd. 442 near Cooks. They haven't killed a deer yet, but they don't really care. "We're just having a good time," Joe said. "My wife told me not to bring anything home. I don't want to disappoint her," he said.

Passerby Rescues Four In Munising

MUNISING—A mother and her three small children were rescued by passerby Tuesday when an explosion and fire destroyed their two story home two blocks from Munising's business district.

Curtis

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jones left Monday for California for the winter months.

Mrs. Anne Crisler accompanied her son Earl Crisler to his home in Virginia for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Clem Hoffmeyer of Dearborn Heights visited her sister, Mrs. Zola Taylor and also at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Humphrey Sr. They will also visit their daughter Jane and family at Chicago.

Mrs. Ed Cooper returned to her home from Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. James Perry and her 3 year old daughter and 6 and 8 year old sons all were taken to Munising Memorial Hospital suffering from severe burns, cuts and bruises.

The noon hour explosion shook the entire business district and rattled windows throughout the community.

A neighbor, state police trooper Herb Ketzler, and an 18 year old Munising high school student, Arthur Bowers, were credited by Munising firemen with saving the lives of the family.

After the explosion, flames immediately engulfed the nine room frame house and caused extensive damage to homes owned by Ketzler and another neighbor, Michael Hancock.

Ketzler helped Mrs. Perry and two of her children from the burning structure while Bowers ran into the house to find the third child who was pinned under an iron radiator.

Police Seeking Four Who Stole Sheriff's Car

ROGERS CITY (AP) — State Police and sheriff's deputies set up road blocks in northern Michigan today to trap three young men and a girl who stole a Presque Isle County sheriff's car.

Presque Isle County Under-sheriff Walter Kelly said the four used a knife to disarm Deputy Charles Nowak and force him out of his car.

Kelly said a citizen phoned the sheriff's office to report that the four were asleep in a car in a ditch on M 65 about eight miles southeast of Rogers City.

Nowak went to investigate and, believing the four might be runaways, had them get in his car to take them back to the sheriff's office for questioning. When they were about five miles from Rogers City, one of the four pulled a knife. They forced the deputy to get out of his car, took his service revolver, and then drove off.

The car was described as a black and white 1967 Ford with the lettering "Presque Isle County No. 11" on the side.

Money Racket Irks Ribicoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — A billion-dollar currency manipulation racket with Indian money changers at the top and GI deserters at the bottom has corrupted some South Vietnamese officials, congressional investigators have been told.

The investigations committee, headed by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., also heard testimony Tuesday that millions of dollars from the illegal operation end up in U.S. banks.

Robert Parker, an official at the U.S. embassy in Saigon, said the Indians "constitute a syndicate in the most criminal and sinister sense of the word."

"The presence of this well known group of Indian currency violators, operating openly, weakens the morale of more dedicated Vietnamese law enforcement officials, makes corruption seem easy and encourages others to share in the black market profits themselves," Parker said.

He said many GIs have dealt with the money dealers who give up to 240 South Vietnamese piasters for a dollar instead of the legal rate of 118-to-1.

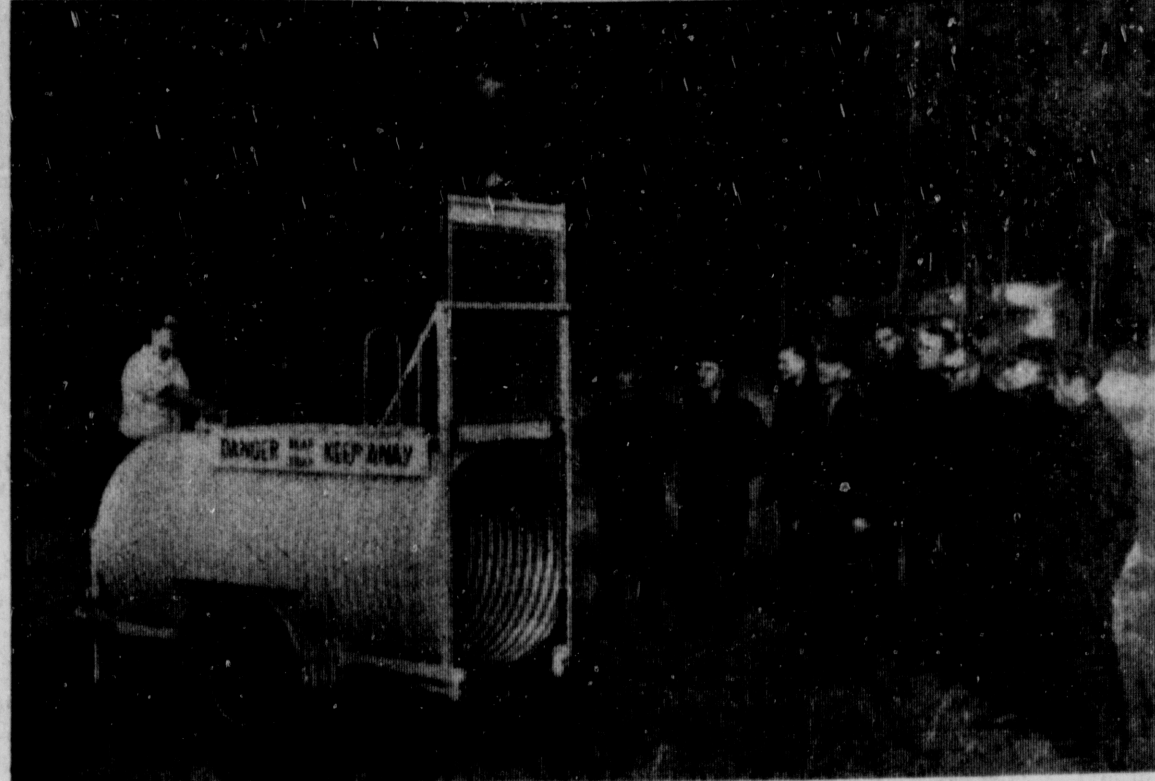

American deserters often sell their citizenship and contacts in the U.S. military to the syndicate, Parker indicated.

But Parker characterized the GI as "a small player in a game with million-dollar stakes." Parker said the racket has generated more than $150 million annually in illegal funds.

Rose Bowl Rule May Be Changed

CHICAGO (AP) — The Big Ten's controversial no-repeat rule for the Rose Bowl may be lifted after this year. At least it is going to be re-examined under a promising new light.

Not since the rule — prohibiting a team from making two successive Pasadena trips for the New Year's Day football classic — was adopted in 1962, has it been attacked so consistently and sharply as this season.

The criticism not only has

Rockets Upend DeTour Cagers

RAPID RIVER — The Rapid River Rockets opened up their 1969-70 basketball season in glorious style Tuesday night by notching a 91-86 victory over the DeTour Red Raiders.

"It was a team victory," said Bob Debelak, the Rapid River coach. "They had one player who was outstanding, but we had five."

The one outstanding player Debelak was talking about was DeTour's Tom Newell, who scored 40 points on 15 field goals and 10 free throws and also pulled down 21 rebounds. Other DeTour players in double figures were John Cochrane with 14 points and Martin Ledy with 11.

Rapid River got outstanding games from Dale Morin, Chuck Larsen, Dale Pasi, Sam Johnson and Dan Safford. Larsen paced all the Rockets in the scoring column with 27 points on 11 field goals and five free throws, while Morin also went over the 20-point mark with 24 on eight field goals and eight free throws.

Also hitting in double figures for the Rockets were Johnson with 15 points and Pasi with 13. Safford only scored eight points, but was a big man on the boards for Rapid River.

DeTour outrebounded the Rockets 70 to 54, but Rapid River hit on 35 of 80 field goal attempts. The Rockets scored 30 points in the first period and outscored DeTour in every quarter but the fourth.

Four Buckeyes Receive Honors

By The Associated Press
There's no defense better than the Minnesota Vikings," said Coach Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue.

"They're too quick and there are too many of them," said his quarterback, Mike Phipps.

Both were talking about the 11-man defensive unit of top-ranked Ohio State after Saturday's 42-14 thumping at the hands of the Buckeyes. And, in an unprecedented move, four members of that unit—cornerback Jack Tatum, halfbacks Ted Provost and Tim Anderson and safety Mike Sensibaugh—were named Tuesday as college football's Backs of the Week by The Associated Press.

Phipps came into the game as the nation's total offense leader and one of the top passers with 139 completions in 247 attempts for 56.3 per cent, 2,086 yards and 18 touchdown passes. He had been intercepted 11 times in eight games, but the tenacious Buckeyes picked off five, one shy of the Big Ten record, and held him to 19 for 45 for 203 yards.

Provost, a 6-foot-3, 184-pound senior from Navarre, Ohio, and Sensibaugh, a 6-foot, 190-pound junior from Cincinnati, intercepted two apiece while Anderson, a 6-foot, 194-pound junior from Follansbee, W. Va., grabbed the other one.

But it was Tatum, a ferocious 6-foot, 204-pound junior from Passaic, N.J., who won the coaches' award as defensive back of the game as he broke up passes and nailed the ball-carrier often and hard.

"Our defense was exceptionally good," said Coach Woody Hayes of the unit that didn't allow Purdue's offense to score until the Buckeyes had a 42-7 lead. "The outcome was determined by the success of our defense would be that good I wouldn't have believed it."

been within the conference but also without, extending from coaches of independents to a reported growing restlessness in some Pacific Eight circles.

It has ballooned because unbeaten and No. 1 ranked Ohio State, if it maintains this status after its finishing game with Michigan Saturday, will not be able to display itself since it went to the Rose Bowl last season as the Big Ten champion.

That means a second place team — Michigan or Purdue — will go this time.

Coach Ara Parseghian of Cotton Bowl-bound Notre Dame constantly in the later stages of this season has expressed his opinion — for what it is worth — that it is a shame Ohio State, as No. 1, is prevented from going to the Rose Bowl.

"The Big Ten should at least make an exception if the team is No. 1 or if it is undisputed conference champion," he said.

Needless to say, the West Coast likes the idea, too.

It has come to the point where the no-repeat rule for the first time will be put on the agenda for the annual winter meetings of athletic directors and faculty representatives in Chicago starting Dec. 11.

"I sense that there is a basic feeling throughout the conference for re-examination of the rule — more so than at any other time," Commissioner Bill Reed told The Associated Press. "It has taken a situation like this — having such a barn-burning team as Ohio State — to catalyze thinking."

Reed said that although there may be feeling to lift the no-repeat rule, he detected "no upsurge in the conference" to permit the Big Ten runnerup to accept another bowl bid if the champion went to the Rose Bowl. A majority vote ostensibly by faculty representatives could knock out the rule. Discussions will be held in the winter meetings and the voting probably will be held over until the spring sessions in March.

"At any rate it would be a policy change and thus become an institutional matter putting it under the White Resolution," said Reed.

The White Resolution calls for separate institutional review of several months.

In 1962, when the new "open end" Rose Bowl contract was negotiated with the West Coast, the no-repeat rule was inserted as a compromise to get the academically-minded facultymen to vote favorably for the post season tieup.

"There will may be a change in faculty thinking now," Reed said. "They have a greater confidence in the conduct of the entire athletic program by the Big Ten. This revolves around our emphasis on academic achievement based on normal progress toward a degree for eligibility. It has won many friends."

The stingy foursome was pretty good last year, too. Tatum's defensive play to hold Leroy Keyes, Ed Podolak, Ron Johnson and O.J. Simpson in check was unparalleled in Ohio State history.

Provost holds the school career record of 16 interceptions, Sensibaugh twice stopped Simpson on goal line situations in the Rose Bowl while Anderson had a key interception in that game.

Other candidates for Back of the Week included:

—Bill Cappelman, Florida State quarterback, completed 31 of 51 passes for 508 yards and three touchdowns in a 28-26 loss to Memphis State.

—Archie Manning, Mississippi quarterback, set up two quick touchdowns, scoring one himself, as the Rebels rolled to a stunning 38-0 triumph over third-ranked Tennessee.

—Perry Tiberio, Virginia Tech tailback, carried 10 times for 170 yards and scored twice in a 48-12 rout of Duke.

—Dennis Shaw, San Diego State quarterback, passed for 448 yards and nine touchdowns, a national record, in a 70-21 slaughter of New Mexico State and also set a season mark of 34 TD passes.

—Billy Taylor, Michigan tailback, gained 225 yards and scored twice as the Wolverines ripped Iowa 51-6.

—Dan Schneiss, Nebraska fullback, carried 12 times for 92 yards, caught three passes for 44 and punted seven times for a 49.1 average in the Cornhuskers' 10-7 squeaker over Kansas State.

Miller Slows Up Hectic Schedule With Spartans

(Special to The Daily Press)

EAST LANSING—Life began to seem a little less hurried—and hurried—this week for Pat Miller, one of the finest all-around high school athletes ever produced in the Upper Peninsula.

For the last several weeks, the young Michigan State university sophomore business administration major from Menominee has been scurrying between Jenison fieldhouse and the Spartan football practice field.

At the fieldhouse, he is vying for a position at forward on the Michigan State varsity basketball team—and, according to the word around the campus—he has an excellent chance of accomplishing his aim.

At the football field, he works an hour or so a day booming long, high punts across the gridiron in preparation for the Saturday Spartan Classics, as they are called—although they haven't been very classic this year with the Spartan having an unexpectedly poor season.

But to Duffy Daugherty, Michigan State's pockish football coach, Pat Miller's tremendous punting has been one of the few highlights of the current season.

Miller kicks 'em high and he kicks 'em far, giving the Spartan ends plenty of time to get down under them and nab opposing speedsters before they can get under way.

Michigan State fans were very much aware of Miller's kicking prowess in the game against Minnesota when he punted nine times, including one for 57 yards and another that went dead within the Minnesota five yard line.

But for a couple of bad breaks late in the game, Miller's punting might well have led to a victory over the Gophers, who ultimately won 14-10.

"Pat has done an outstanding job of punting for us this year and appears to be getting better every game," said Coach Daugherty.

"Some punters can get distance but distance alone isn't worth much if the kicks aren't high enough to let the ends get down under them before the receivers get into high gear."

"But Pat has tremendous leg power and gets plenty of height on his punts."

"For three quarters before we made a couple of mistakes, Pat certainly kept us in good

Moody Selected Golfer Of Year

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) —

The former Army sergeant who rose from golfing obscurity to fame in one leap, Orville Moody, was named Player of the Year Tuesday by the Professional Golfers' Association.

Moody, 35, was the surprise winner of the U.S. Open in June, 20 months after joining the pro tour.

A native of Chickasha, Okla., he won the World Series of Golf, finished in a tie for seventh in the PGA Championship and was second in the Greater Greensboro Open.

For the first time in 16 years, two pros were awarded the Professional of the Year title. The title went to Wally Mundt, St. Paul, Minn., and A. Hubert Smith Jr., Tullahoma, Tenn.

Lone Peninsula Grid Star Honored On Class C Squad

By The Associated Press

Six of the 11 players named to this year's Associated Press Class C All-State high school football team have the distinction of coming from undefeated squads.

Named were: ends Gary Meter of Saginaw St. Stephen and Dave Wood of Battle Creek St. Philip; tackles Pepper Colvin of Berrien Springs and Kirby Goodwin of Frankenmuth; guards Kevin Rariden of Flint St. Michael and Mike Ashley of DeWitt; center Rick Franz of Saginaw St. Stephen; quarterback Mark Niesen of Manistee Catholic Central; and running backs Ralph Munger of Frankenmuth, John Wollet of Hudson, and

Cincinnati Given Rights To Cousy

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—The Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association obtained the right Tuesday to activate coach Bob Cousy as a player in a deal with the Boston Celtics.

Cousy has been on Boston's voluntary retired list and could not play for the Royals without Boston's permission.

Red Auerbach, the Celtics' general manager, and Joe Axelson, the Royals' general manager, worked out a deal which would give the Celtics injured Bill Dinwiddie in return for the player rights to Cousy and a future draft choice to be worked out between the two clubs.

John Brown of St. Ignace.

Meter is a transfer student from Kalamazoo Hackett. He caught 31 passes for 870 yards and 13 touchdowns. He is a fine blocker on end sweeps and as a defensive halfback snared three pass interceptions.

Wood stands 6-5 and that no doubt has helped him catch 23 passes for 512 yards this season. The 185-pound senior scored five TDs and is considered a top-notch blocker. He played halfback on defense, intercepting five passes and averaging eight solo tackles a game. Wood also does St. Philip's punting, averaging 35 yards a try.

Berrien Springs finished with a meek 2-6 record but 6-2, 215-pound Colvin can't be blamed. He was in on 89 tackles, including 27 solos; recovered three fumbles, intercepted two passes and blocked three more, and he blocked two punts.

Northern Stars Receive Honors

MARQUETTE — Veteran quarterback Rich McCarthy and junior offensive lineman Tom Watson were honored yesterday as Northern Michigan University's most valuable player for 1969 and captain-elect for 1970 respectively.

McCarthy, a senior from Kingsford, was Northern's total offensive leader with a record 1,417 yards this season and also established single — season marks of 95 completions for 1,476 yards. The 5-foot-11-inch, 180-pound signal caller rewrote the Wildcat record book with a total of 10 game, season and career pass records.

Watson, a former Newberry High School griddier, started the 1969 season at outside tackle but was switched to tight end after the Wildcats ran into a rash of injuries. He was also pressed into duty as a defensive end because of depth problems in Northern's final two games.

Both selections were announced Tuesday by Northern's head coach Rollie Dotsch at the weekly Quarterback Club luncheon.

Pistons Register Overtime Victory

By The Associated Press

The Detroit Pistons overcame an 18 - point deficit Tuesday night to force their national Basketball Association match with the Los Angeles Lakers into overtime.

But, as has happened so often this season, the Pistons rally ran out of steam just when it was needed most. The Lakers had lost Jerry West to fouls, but Elgin Baylor pumped in six straight points in the extra session and allowed LA to claim a 125-114 victory.

It was the 10th defeat in 16 outings for the Pistons this season. As though another defeat wasn't bad enough, Detroit got additional bad news when star guard Dave Bing came up limping after a second-quarter fall. He left the game and an x-ray examination of his foot was Frankenmuth was the No. 1 "C" team in Michigan for the second straight year and the Eagles were loaded with standouts. The 6-2, 210-pound Goodwin was one of them.

Rariden, a 6-1, 170-pound guard on offense played line-backer on defense. He averaged 14 tackles a game.

Ashley, a B-plus student and captain of his team, lettered four years. This season DeWitt has given up only six points a game and Ashley has averaged 30 per cent of the tackles. He also intercepted eight passes and plays fullback on offense.

Saginaw St. Stephen ran considerably up the middle and it was Rick Franz who continually ly did a standout job to lead the blocking. The 6-3, 210-pound senior played end and tackle on defense, averaging seven solo tackles a game.

Manistee Catholic Central, 8-0-1, was rated fourth in this season's poll. It was Niesen who guided the team to that record as the six-foot, 180-pound senior quarterback rushed for 1,400 yards and passed for another 1,080. He completed 86 of 140 passes and scored 17 touchdowns. The amazing signal caller also tossed 15 TD aerials.

Munger is half of Frankenmuth's touchdown duo that also includes halfback Dale Weiss. Munger has scored 14 TDs and Weiss 10. The 5-10, 165-pound senior rushed for 575 yards in 100 carries.

Wollet is only one of two juniors picked to the "C" All-State team. The 5-11 halfback ran for 1,003 yards in 144 tries for a seven-yard a carry average. He scored 104 points, including 15 touchdowns. Wollet also did unbeaten Hudson's punting and kickoffs and is considered a fine blocker. As an outside linebacker on defense he was the team's third leading tackler.

A second - team All - State choice last year, Brown was a shoo-in this time. He rushed for 1,146 yards in 129 carries and scored 17 touchdowns in a 117-point total. He was named to the All Upper Peninsula team. In his three year career Brown has amassed 394 points.

Two Injuries Darken Bronco Cage Picture

BARK RIVER—With injuries to two of the five returning lettermen, the basketball picture for the Bark River-Harris Broncos looks a little hazy at this point.

Dan Veaser, the second leading scorer on last year's team, and Russ Piriott, a valuable substitute last season, both suffered injuries during practice sessions. Veaser, a 5 foot 9 inch guard, has a partially collapsed lung and will be out of action indefinitely, while Piriott suffered a knee injury which could be detrimental to his performance this season.

Also returning to the Bronco lineup this season will be Alex Jorasz, a 6 foot 1/2 inch forward who was a starter last season and scored 180 points in 18 games, Gary Whatley, a 6 foot forward-center, and Larry Ray, a 6 foot guard-forward.

The Broncos lost five players through graduation, including 6 foot 4 inch Tom Ray, who was the team's leading scorer and rebounder. Others gone this year are Tom Fournier, John Jorasz, Dick Teal and Phil Sagataw.

In addition to the five returning lettermen, the remaining players on the Bark River-Harris roster this season will be seniors Dan Sagataw and Randy Leese and juniors Loren Veaser, Terry Piriott, Al Richer and Gary Phillips. Veaser was the top scorer on the junior varsity team last year and Richer and Leese have shown some scoring ability.

John Butrymowicz, former head basketball coach at Holy Name High School, will be in his first season at the helm of the Broncos, taking over from last year's coach, Tom DeBakker. In commenting on the coming season, Butrymowicz said, "We have a lack of varsity experience, so we will have to rely on our defense and speed."

The Broncos open their 16-game schedule this Friday night at Hermansville against the Redskins. Their schedule includes eight home games and they will also participate in the Central League Holiday Tournament at Eben, which begins on Dec. 29 and runs through Jan. 3.

The Bronco schedule:
Nov. 21—at Hermansville
Dec. 2—Trenary
Dec. 5—at Rock
Dec. 9—at Perkins

Michigan Roster Loaded With Players From Ohio

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—If Michigan should just happen to upset Ohio State Saturday, blame it on the state of Ohio.

Twenty Michigan football players come from the Buckeye state and 16 of them are regulars or near-regulars with the Wolverines. Ohio State, meanwhile, does not have a single player from the state of Michigan.

"Yes, we've got quite a few from down there," smiled U-M coach Bo Schembechler, himself from Barborton, Ohio. He served eight years under OSU coach Woody Hayes as a player and assistant before becoming head coach at Miami of Ohio in 1963.

He took over the football reins at Michigan in December last year.

Michigan's captain is tight end Jim Mandich of Solon, Ohio. The 6-foot-3, 222-pound senior is one of the team's prime All-American candidates.

Leading pass receiver in the Big Ten most of the year, Mandich has hauled in 36 passes for 505 yards and four touchdowns. But that's not only where his talent lies.

"I like blocking just as much as catching," he said one day after practice. "It's just as big a challenge as getting open and catching a pass, and even more so because there is a man-for-man challenge there."

He is a crunching blocker and has won coaches' praise on numerous occasions for throwing key blocks.

"Tight end is an ideal position for me," said the 21-year-old economics major. "It affords an opportunity to catch the ball but there is some aspect of the entire game at the position."

But Michigan is expected to concentrate on running against Ohio State, the nation's No. 1 team. The Buckeyes entire defensive backfield was chosen for combined "Back of the Week" honors by the Associated Press as a result of their performance in squelching Mike Phipps passing attack Saturday as the Buckeyes crushed Purdue 42-14.

U-M's top rusher is late-blooming tailback sensation Billy Taylor. The sophomore speedster from Barborton, Ohio, has amassed 673 yards in the last four games since replacing Glenn Doughty.

Besides Mandich, two other Wolverines are considered All-American candidates—and they are both from Ohio.

Safety Tom Curtis of Sandusky has already intercepted six passes this year and 23 in his career, second best in National Collegiate Athletic Association history. He was All-Big Ten last year and is considered a good pro prospect.

The other is junior offensive tackle Dan Dierdorf of Canton. The 6-4, 255-pounder has been a standout all season for an offensive line that has led the nation's sixth best rushing team.

"Something would be wrong with a player who couldn't score behind the blocking of Dierdorf or Mandich," said fullback Garvie Craw a week after he scored four touchdowns.

Other Ohio natives playing for Michigan are: middle guard Al Francis of Euclid; quarterbacks Bill Berutti of Franklin and Jim Betts of Cleveland; offensive tackles Werner Hall of Sandusky, Jack Harpring of Cincinnati, and Bob Ritley of Garfield Heights.

Also from Ohio are: guards Ed Baldwin of Hamilton, Frank Titus of Cleveland and Joe Lukz of Niles; linebackers Marty Huff of Toledo and Ed Moore of Youngstown; split end Mike Oldman of Cincinnati; defensive tackle Dick McCoy of Alliance; defensive backs Tom Darden and Brian Healy of Sandusky; and punter Mark Werner of Cincinnati.

TWO-YEAR TRIP TO JUPITER — "Fly Me to the Moon" will be old hat when this 525-pound spacecraft is launched. The drawing is of the first man-made object to leave the solar system, its launch scheduled for early 1972. Destination Jupiter, about a billion miles and two years away. The craft is to send back two-color pictures and scientific data.

GLADSTONE

Lions Learn About Sweden

Elmer Peterson, mathematics and science teacher at Gladstone High School, spoke about Sweden at the meeting of the Gladstone Lions Club at the Yacht Club.

Peterson and his wife spent five weeks touring Sweden by car last summer. He said he feels the Swedish people are friendly toward the United States and not Communist thinking.

According to Peterson, three or four years of English is required in the schools in Sweden.

Churches are beautiful, but very poorly attended, he said, and the Swedish standard of living appeared to be about equal to that in the U.S. He said the people seem happy and satisfied with their Socialistic government.

One feature the Petersons enjoyed was the lack of commercials on television, which is state supported. Their products are all standardized and there is little choice of makes of products. He said Sweden is much more severe than the U.S. in their punishment for drunk driving. Anyone found guilty of such an offense is sent to a work camp for two months, Peterson said.

The Petersons enjoyed their trip immensely and plan to return in about three years.

Accident Fatal To Ex-Demo Aide

DETROIT (AP) — Charles S. Porritt, a Grosse Pointe Park attorney and former Democratic state chairman, died Tuesday in a Detroit hospital of injuries suffered Saturday in an automobile accident. He was 65.

Porritt was Democratic state chairman from 1939 to 1943 and was allied politically with former Gov. Murray D. Van Waggoner. In the 1930s he served as head of the State Highway Department's land and legal division and as a member of the State Public Utilities Commission.

He was a native of Pontiac and will be buried in Perryman Cemetery there, following funeral services Friday in Detroit.

Survivors include his widow, Elizabeth S.; two daughters, Mrs. Martin Petersen and Mrs. Michael Hegarty; a brother, Dr. Homer Porritt, and two sisters, Mrs. Gelston Poole and Mrs. Joseph Dempsey.

Briefly Told

Gladstone City Police ticketed Daniel R. Vansumeren of Bay City for careless driving and failure to report a property damage accident. Vansumeren struck a telephone pole at Railroad Ave. and 4th St.

Demonstrators Given Warning At Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Demonstrators were under court order today not to interfere with operations of the University of Notre Dame placement bureau.

The order was issued at the request of the university Tuesday night after a demonstration during on-campus interviews by the Central Intelligence Agency and Dow Chemical Co.

The CIA representative left the campus, but Dow had more interviews planned today.

The university suspended an undisclosed number of students after about 15 persons blocked doors to rooms where representatives of the federal agency and the private firm were interviewing job applicants.

About 150 demonstrators gathered at the bureau in the administration building. Notre Dame has about 6,200 undergraduates.

The Rev. James L. Diehl, dean of students, said it was not university policy to name suspended students. He said that "at least one" of the 15 demonstrators was not a student.

Dean Diehl imposed the university's 15-minute period of "meditation to cease and desist" when the demonstrators forced the CIA and Dow to cancel Tuesday afternoon appointments.

The 15-minute ruling established Feb. 17 by the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, Notre Dame president, calls for students who fail to cease disruptive demonstrations after the 15-minute "meditation" is announced to turn in their university identification cards and face suspension. Persons who do not submit ID cards are presumed non-students and according to the ruling liable to arrest on charges of trespassing.

Inventor Lear Changes Mind About Stocks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Inventor William P. Lear, who said last week he would offer stock in his company developing steam and gas turbine auto engines, said Tuesday he has made no formal plans for the offering.

Lear told a newsman Friday he would offer $25 million in stock over-the-counter in his Lear Motors Corp. of Reno, Nev., but said Tuesday Securities and Exchange Commission regulations prevent him from announcing a stock offering without prior approval.

"They want the prerogative of knowing about it first," he said.

"It's no secret I can't kick in $25 million more of my money," he said of plans to develop replacements for the internal combustion engine to cut down on auto-produced smog. "I haven't got that much money to do the job."

It would take $25 million just to reach production of a workable gas turbine prototype, he said. Tooling up to produce engines for buses and trucks would take another $75 million and production of autos $300 million more.

Lear said he also has considered taking in partners or selling bonds, but leans to a stock offering to raise capital. He has invested $5 million of his fortune from developing executive jet planes and stereo cartridge systems into development of steam engines.

Last week, he said steam engines were only an interim solution to air pollution problems and would be followed by the turbine engine.

Task Force Aide

LANSING (AP) — S. Martin Taylor, a Bangor native who has practiced law in Chicago for the past two years, has been named executive assistant to State Commerce Director Richard Whitmer. Taylor, 29, succeeds Ward J. Mayrand, who was named deputy director of the department's aeronautics commission. Whitmer said Taylor would begin work with a task force that is looking for ways the department can offer employment to disadvantaged persons.

Wives Of Astronauts Hail Mates' Efforts

SPACE CENTER, Houston — (AP) — "We made it again," sighed Sue Bean. "Unbelievable!" exclaimed Barbara Gordon. "There they are," said Jane Conrad, pointing to the moon.

With cheers, hugs, sighs, applause and champagne, the Apollo 12 wives celebrated today America's second successful moon landing.

The families, huddling with friends and relatives and astronauts and astronauts' wives, watched television and listened as Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean guided their moonship Intrepid to the lunar surface.

All Night Moon Vigil

"An all-night moon vigil," was the way Sue Bean described it, although she chose later to try for a nap between the landing and the moonwalk.

"This night belongs to Pete and Al," said a wistful Barbara Gordon.

Separated from his colleagues, Richard F. Gordon Jr., piloted the command ship Yankee Clipper in moon orbit, alone and poised for a rescue attempt should one become necessary.

As the crew prepared for the descent, ground communicator Gerry Carr told the astronauts their wives were resting for the long night ahead.

Mrs. Gordon Happy

"I just talked to Barbara and she's been resting up," Carr told Gordon. "They're taking naps and everything, getting all set for spending the night up with you."

"And Barbara said to tell you that she thinks you're just great."

"Well!" Gordon laughingly replied. "Tell her thank you. After 16 years, it's about time."

"Mama's going to let us stay up," exclaimed an excited Larry Gordon, 11, one of the six Gordon children. "And we don't have to go to school Wednesday."

Peter Conrad Has Plan

Peter Conrad, 14, and a companion were mapping plans to reenact the flight of Intrepid in a cardboard "lunar lander" this weekend.

Peter and his friend, Michael Howell, will climb into a box between beds in a room of the Howell home Friday night.

The simulated moonship contains sleeping pads, a toy instrument panel, a television set and other equipment designed to aid

Small Staten Island Lot Looms Big In Tax Hassle

WASHINGTON (AP) — A real-estate lawyer's battle with New York tax collectors over a speck of backyard land on Staten Island was transformed today in the Supreme Court into an ominous economic threat to organized religion.

Frederick Walz, an almost invisible lawyer who lives with a number of dogs and cats in a Bronx apartment, caused the high court to seriously consider for the first time whether the Constitution forbids states to exempt churches and synagogues from real estate taxes.

Ruling Important

There's a lot riding on the outcome besides constitutional theory.

Some $79.5 billion in religious property could be opened to taxation—$726 million-worth in New York state alone—if Walz wins.

Walz had help only from the American Civil Liberties Union, which helped him prepare his case, and Edward J. Ennis, an ACLU lawyer from New York City who represented the enigmatic attorney at today's hearing.

Arrayed against Walz were New York city and state, 36 other states, the National Council of Churches, the United States Catholic Conference and other major religious organizations.

Rejection Sought

J. Lee Rankin, corporation counsel of New York City and U.S. solicitor general from 1956 to 1961, asked the court to throw out Walz' claim that the First Amendment forbids an exemption from real estate taxes for buildings that are used entirely for religious purposes.

Walz, a lawyer who does not have a telephone at home and will not answer the one in his Manhattan office, began asserting this claim from the time he bought his 22-by-29 foot parcel in June 1967.

The property, assessed at $100, has some trees and bushes but no buildings and no access to any street. In a summons served on the city's tax commission Walz registered his basic complaint: that by paying a $5.24 a year property tax he was being forced to indirectly support the churches and synagogues that are exempt from taxes.

Issue Sophisticated

The issue, obviously, is considerably more sophisticated.

The Supreme Court, on several occasions, has declared that "no tax in any amount, large or small, can be levied to support any religious activities or institutions, whatever they may be called, or whatever form they may adopt to teach or practice religion."

But, at the same time, the court has said the First Amendment "requires the state to be a neutral in its relations with groups of religious believers and nonbelievers; it does not require the state to be their adversary."

Two Statements Used

The first statement is taken as support of Walz' position; the second is taken by defenders of tax exemptions as authority and justification for continuing exemptions.

Rankin told the court the

Viet Cong Get Another Dose Of B52 Bombs

SAIGON (AP) — Fifty B52 Stratofortresses dropped some 1,500 tons of bombs during the night on North Vietnamese forces threatening the Bu Prang and Duc Lap Special Forces camps along the Cambodian border.

The heaviest concentration was laid around Bu Prang, where 40 of the bombers pounded enemy positions on three sides of the camp. Some of the bombs hit only two miles from the camp perimeter.

The B52 raids followed three days of fighter-bomber strikes against North Vietnamese guns shelling Bu Prang from inside Cambodia and against enemy infantry battling with South Vietnamese soldiers around the camps. The U.S. Command said 243 North Vietnamese soldiers were killed near Bu Prang Monday, most of them by bombs, rockets and napalm from American planes.

Despite the heavy air attacks, North Vietnamese troops continued their shelling of Bu Prang. However, there were no reports of new ground fighting.

Several rounds of recoilless rifle shells and rocket-grenades fell inside the camp compound during the night. South Vietnamese infantrymen a mile southeast of the camp also came under fire.

There were no immediate reports on casualties.

Dates Listed For Education Tests

Dates and time for the General Educational Development (GED) tests have been announced by Mrs. Lee Pappas, school guidance counselor.

Testing will be offered Wednesday, Dec. 3 and Friday, Dec. 5, starting at 7 p. m., in addition to Saturday, Dec. 6, starting at 9 a. m.

Since the five-part test requires about 10 hours of testing time, each person must come at least one of the week nights in addition to Saturday, Mrs. Pappas said.

Anyone passing the test with satisfactory scores is eligible for a high school equivalency certificate, issued by the State Department of Education, or credit in the Manistique Community School.

Mrs. Pappas may be contacted at 341-2195 by anyone wishing further information.

Roller Skating Plans Complete

Roller skating — one of the most popular programs offered through the Community School last year — has again been scheduled in the old gym, according to Community School director, Dick Bonifas.

Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday sessions have been scheduled and other times will be scheduled when other activities permit, Bonifas said.

Junior and senior high school students may skate from 6:30 to 8:30 on Tuesday nights. Family night skating will be permitted on Thursdays from 7 to 8:30. Elementary youngsters are scheduled on Fridays from 3:45 to 6 p. m., and junior high students from 6:30 to 8:30 that night. From 1 p. m. to 2:30 on Saturday afternoons is reserved for elementary youngsters and general skating from 2:45 to 4:15 in the afternoon.

Roller skating will not be scheduled for Friday nights when the Manistique Emeralds are playing basketball at home. Membership cards from last year are valid until Jan. 1. Adult fees are 50 cents with 25 cents charged for children and students.
